Jacobson Quits As TB Director

Will Be Succeeded Sept. 1 by Herkimer County Physician

At the meeting of the Ulster County Board of Health held Monday evening, the resignation of Dr. Joseph Jacobson as director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital was received and accepted with regret by the Board.

Dr. Jacobson will remain as acting director until September 1. He was appointed director of the Ulster County Hospital on January 1, 1951, having served as acting director following the resignation of Dr. George Weber in September 1950. Since 1935 he has been thoracic surgical consultant at the hospital and he plans to continue in that capacity, as well as serving as attending thoracic surgeon at the New York Municipal Tuberculosis Hospital in Otisville. He also will continue as clinical assistant professor of surgery at the New York Medical College.

Schwartz Appointed

Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, who is at present director of the Herkimer County Tuberculosis Hospital located at Salisbury Center, was appointed to the position of director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, effective September 1.

Dr. Schwartz was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in 1935. He had a residency of one and a half years at the Sea View Tuberculosis Hospital, Staten Island. He has been associated with the Schenectady County Tuberculosis Hospital and the Robert Koch Hospital in St. Louis. He worked with the Tuberculosis Division of the New York State Health Department completing an X-ray survey of state mental hospitals, and was appointed director of the Herkimer County Tuberculosis Hospital in 1944.

Will Name Donnelly

Bonn, Germany, July 15 (AP)—The appointment of Walter J. Donnelly as United States high commissioner for Germany will be announced in Washington late this week, a high American official said today. Donnelly who now is U. S. high commissioner for Austria, is slated to become America's first postwar ambassador to Germany when ratification of the West German peace contract ends the occupation. The allies hope this will come in the fall. First, however, he will succeed High Commissioner John J. McCloy, who is returning to the U. S. next Monday after three years as America's top diplomatic representative here.

Towers Are Hazard

Air Force Says Russians Placed Structures in Path of Planes

Berlin, July 15 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force is growing nervous over the hazard caused by the towers for a new giant radio transmitter erected by the Communists on the outskirts of Berlin. Allied officials are considering making some representation to the Russians over possible danger to their aircraft.

Officers said today the two 700-foot towers of radio Koepenick are placed precisely where allied planes start their glide towards the Tempelhof Airport.

The towers now are booming out Red propaganda under 300 kilowatt power, second only to radio Moscow. They were completed and opened for business two weeks ago.

U. S. Takes Its Own Magazine Out of Circulation in Russia

Washington, July 15 (AP)—The State Department today ordered the Russian Embassy to quit publishing and distributing pamphlets in the United States.

A department statement announcing this said the U. S. was suspending publication of a Russian-language magazine called "Amerika," which it had been distributing in Russia.

It said the twin actions were taken because the Russians were obstructing distribution of "Amerika" in the Soviet Union.

In halting the "Amerika" project, the department gave up operations on the last remaining wedge into the Iron Curtain.

A spokesman said the slick-paper magazine was so popular in the Soviet Union that newsstands sold out all copies within a few hours after they went on sale wherever the Russian government did not interfere.

Sold at Much More

Second-hand copies were sometimes sold on the black market at many times the original price of ten rubles.

The suspension action was taken, the department said, because of "progressive restriction" by Russian authorities against "Amerika," a lavishly-illustrated monthly patterned after Life Magazine.

In a note addressed to the Russian Foreign Office, the State Department asserted:

"As a result of this obstruction, the number of copies which can be presumed to reach the Soviet public has become so small as not to justify this effort of the Government of the United States to supply Soviet readers with a true picture of American life and thus to promote understanding between the two peoples."

9,036 Are Convicted In FBI Trial Cases

Washington, July 15 (AP)—The Justice Department said today that 97.2 per cent of the persons brought to trial in cases investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation during fiscal 1952 were convicted.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported there were 9,036 such convictions during the year compared with 8,408 the year before. He said the sentences impossed totaled more than 22,600 years, plus six life sentences.

"The FBI," said Hoover, "returned to the taxpayers in the form of fines, savings and recoveries a total of $61,918,535, an increase of more than 22 million dollars over the previous year.

"In addition, renegotiation act claims investigated by the FBI and adjusted in favor of the government totaled $55,089,810."

The report said that during the year, 11,100 fugitives were located and 12,310 automobiles recovered in FBI cases. Some 6,300 fugitives were located in the previous year and 10,781 automobiles recovered.

Still Has Virus

Washington, July 15 (AP)—President Truman remained away from his desk at the White House again today. He is suffering from a mild virus infection. The President became indisposed Sunday and cancelled his list of appointments yesterday.

Wilson Improves

Supervisor Kenneth Wilson, town of Woodstock, who recently underwent an emergency operation at the Benedictine Hospital, was reported as showing satisfactory improvement at the hospital today.

New Peace Talks Arranged in Steel For Owners, Labor

OPS Rejects 3 Appeals for Price Boosts—Steelman Insists on Renewal

Pittsburgh, July 15 (AP)—Government prodding set up new peace talks today between the CIO United Steelworkers and the industry for another try at ending the paralizing 1952 steel strike.

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman arranged the talks. He acted after a round of weekend discussions raised hope — then failed—in settling the 44-day-old dispute.

Steelman telephoned both union and industry representatives from Washington yesterday and insisted on a new try for peace in the strike that has idled about a million and a half of the nation's breadwinners.

President Philip Murray and Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel, head the union negotiating team. The industry is represented by two Bethlehem Steel Corp. officials — Vice President Joseph Larkin and John H. Morse, general counsel.

Appeals Are Rejected

Coincidental with setting up the peace talks, the office of price stabilization tossed a minor bomb by rejecting appeals of three steel companies for price boosts ranging from $5.50 to $6 a ton.

But the OPS ruling against appeals from Weirton, Armco and Pittsburgh Steel—all operating under new contracts—was quickly shrugged off by the industry.

Steelman spent Saturday talking prices with officials of United States Steel Corp., bellwether of the industry, and reportedly gave assurance of an increase in steel prices.

The industry pinned its hope for price relief on a promise of an increase averaging $5.65 a ton.

Could Do Nothing

A government official said peace stabilizer Ellis Arnall could do nothing but reject the appeal of Weirton, Armco and Pittsburgh because of the OPS' narrow regulations.

If an increase is given, the three companies would also qualify for the higher prices along with the rest of the industry.

Arnall declined comment on the report that his bosses have agreed to increase steel prices.

Industry's last offer at the weekend sessions was not disclosed. However, it is believed to call for what one industrial spokesman termed "a watered down" version of the modified union shop which was made part of a separate strike-ending agreement the union signed with Pittsburgh steel.

All Must Join

A union shop requires all employes to join the union. The Pittsburgh steel type of union shop stipulated that all new employes must join but can drop out between the 20th and 30th days of work.

The wage proposal made by the companies calls for a 24.6 cent hourly pay package. The package would include a 16 cent an hour outright increase and the remainder in fringe benefits.

The wage stabilization board, when it was trying to avert the strike, recommended a 26½ cent hourly package and a union shop as terms for a new contract.

Must Tolerate Dean

London, July 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that the Red Dean of Canterbury had to be tolerated as part of the price of free speech. "Free speech carries with it the evil of all the foolish, unpleasant, venomous things that are said, but on the whole we would rather lump them than do away with them," Churchill said. To "lump it" is British slang for "suffering" it.

Eisenhower Plans Rest In Denver

GOP Nominee and Wife Get Ovation Upon Return From Chicago Convention

Taft Supporter Pledges Aid, Says All Must Pull Together

Denver, July 15 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower looked forward eagerly today to a vacation of trout fishing and perhaps some golf before turning full attention to "a long, hard campaign" as the Republican presidential nominee.

The general and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived here last night after a four-hour flight from Chicago—where he won the GOP nomination last Friday—and got a big ovation from several thousand persons on hand to welcome them.

Eisenhower gave the cheering crowd a broad smile, waved his hat, then stepped to a microphone and said:

"When we left here a week ago Thursday I made a prophesy: That good, common honest Americans would be in charge of the Republican convention—and they were.

Sees Hard Campaign

"There's a long, hard campaign ahead of us. Every one of us has got to work and scrap. I can't think of a better place (than Denver) for a long breath for what is ahead of us.

"We're glad to be back."

Then he got into an open car and rode seven miles to the Brown Palace Hotel with Mayor Quigg Newton of Denver and Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado.

Thornton played a leading role at the Chicago convention in charting strategy which won the nomination for Eisenhower over Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Eisenhower set up a headquarters here shortly after he returned from Europe June 1. He left Denver aboard a special train July 3 for Chicago, making a whistle stop campaign along the way.

After a brief stay last night at his eighth floor suite in the Brown Palace, the general and his wife spent the night at the home of her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, who returned from Chicago with the triumphant party.

Plans Fishing Trip

Just before boarding his plane in Chicago, Eisenhower said he had had a very busy week and that his time had been "very crowded" since he came home from Europe six weeks ago.

"I hope to hide away (after getting to Denver) and catch some trout," Eisenhower said grinning.

On his arrival here, he was asked at the airport when he planned to go fishing. He said he hoped to get started "day after tomorrow"—Wednesday.

In Chicago, he got in a final round of conferences on campaign matters and spent a good part of the afternoon visiting with his son, John, an army major, who is slated to leave for Korean in a few days. The major was accompanied from Highland Falls, N. Y., by his wife.

Eisenhower's last Chicago caller was Walter Hallahan of West Virginia, a Taft supporter who was temporary chairman of the GOP convention.

Must Pull Together

Hallahan was with the general only a minute. He told newsmen afterward he had pledged his support and he quoted the general as

Slides Down Peak, Has Only Bruises

Dunsmuir, Calif., July 15 (AP)—A San Francisco mountain climber fell nearly a mile down the almost-vertical, snowy side of 14,165-foot Mt. Shasta yesterday and escaped with only bruises and abrasions.

Dan O'Neill, 34, said the only thing that saved his life was his use of swimming techniques to avoid rocks and other obstacles in his 40-mile an hour, head-first slide on his stomach.

"I kept my head, used my toes as brakes and steered with my forearms," he said.

Russian Doubts War Unless West Gives Opportunity

Under Favorable Terms Stalin Would Not Hesitate, Declares Engineer

Bonn, Germany, July 15 (AP)—A bushy-haired Russian, described by American officials as the "most knowledgeable" civilian deserter to the west in recent years, told a news conference today he does not believe there will be any major war for several years.

But if "international dissensions between the western nations ever become serious enough to give the Soviets the advantage," he warned, Stalin would not hesitate to throw his troops into war.

The Russian is 32-year-old Eugeny Volchansky, an engineer who worked for six months in East Germany as the official Soviet representative at a factory before he escaped to the west with the aid of friendly Germans. He has applied for political asylum.

"Stalin desires others to fight for his objectives," said Volchansky. "If he decides, however, that a favorable time for war has come, he will then use Soviet Troops."

People Oppose War

"The idea of war is completely repugnant to the Russian people," he said, but added:

"I believe that Russians would fight if they were convinced that they were again defending their homeland. And because the Soviets have the greatest propaganda apparatus known to many, it is highly conceivable that they could be so convinced."

Volchansky said one deterrent to the Soviets' starting a shooting war "is the fact that revolution within the USSR would be possible under war conditions."

Revolution? Not Now

"Today revolution is unthinkable because of the entanglement of controls exercised over the peolpe. In wartime, a disturbed and resentful people would be able to liberate themselves upon receiving arms."

If a cold war lasts and a hot war is averted, there is a long-range possibility that revolution without war can occur in the Soviet Union, Volchansky said, adding:

"This can only happen if the people can organize themselves, find adequate leadership, run frightful risks and arm themselves."

He reported active resistance to Moscow regime among both the military and civilian population in the Soviet Union and in Communist-run East Germany.

Named Vice-President

Miami, Fla., July 15 (AP)—Mrs. Jean Seaman of Hollis, N. Y., yesterday was elected a vice president of the auxiliary of the National Association of Rainbow Veterans.

Art Exhibit Is Being Hung; Will Open Wednesday, 7:30

Area scenes and myths, preserved on canvas by early 19th century artists of the Hudson River school, were being hung along with portraits and still life paintings in the George Washington School's gymnasium on Monday afternoon, in preparation for Kingston's Art Show which opens Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and continues daily thereafter from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. through August 17.

Trucks from Boston arrived Monday morning, carrying the Karolik and Vose collections; a station wagon from Albany arrived piled high with the Albany Institute of History and Art collection; a local truck unloaded expressed crates from the Metropolitan Museum of New York city, boldly stencilled "Value, $8,000." Local county residents proudly carried in carefully wrapped packages containing family heirlooms.

Expert Direction

White aproned attendants were carefully handling the group of 19th century paintings and hanging them under the direction of Mrs. Emily C. Chadbourne, Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton and guests Maxim Karolik and Robert Vose.

The two guests will speak to Kingstonians at the preview showing on Wednesday night.

Noted Authority

Karolik, in addition to being a world-famed art authority and collector, is one of the most colorful and interesting personages the city has entertained. Consumed with a burning zeal to make America conscious of her cultural heritage in art and music, he is modest about personalities, preferring to talk about his mission.

From a nucleus of antiques which his wife inherited, Karolik built up a collection of 144 pieces of early American furniture, which he has loaned to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts for exhibit. From antiques, his interest spread to paintings of the period of 1815 to 1865—a period once thought to be the "dark ages" of American art.

Of his extensive collection, he had loaned 34 pieces to Kingston for this show in connection with the city's 300th Anniversary. This same collection next year will tour the middle-West. Other items in his collection are at the

Democrats Look To Busy Session

New Speed Queen Comes Home

The superliner United States steams past Ambrose Lightship (arrow, upper right) as she arrives in New York easily breaking the westward speed record across the North Atlantic. She made the trip from England in three days, 12 hours and 12 minutes and beat the British liner Queen Mary's 14-year-old westward record by nine hours and 36 minutes. The vessel also clipped the Queen Mary's record on the eastward crossing.

Superliner Is Back With Second Crossing Conquest

Flight Confirmed Of Research Plane

Report Discloses Craft Has Flown Twice Speed of Sound

Moffett Field, Calif., July 15 (AP)—An apparently inadvertent disclosure that the Skyrocket research airplane has flown twice the speed of sound was confirmed here today.

It also was indicated that the Skyrocket carries refrigeration equipment enough to cool a theatre of 3,000 seats.

This would be necessary—in an airplane flying more than 1,300 miles an hour—in order to keep the pilot from being roasted, and to keep the airplane metal from turning soft.

The navy has announced officially only that Douglas test pilot Bill Bridgeman flew its D558-II Skyrocket faster and higher than any other piloted aircraft has travelled.

Flown Last August

The details were kept secret. The new world speed and altitude records were set over the Mojave Desert near Edwards Air Force base, Calif., last August.

At an air show at Edwards last Saturday, however, an announcer said the Skyrocket had flown more than 1,300 miles an hour.

A fellow officer said later that the announcer had been authorized only to say the plane was capable of that speed.

The altitude mark—"more than 79,000 feet"—was in an article in the aviation trade magazine Pegasus a month ago.

The Skyrocket was launched from a B-29 mother ship, at about 30,000 feet, for the start of its record-breaking flight.

It has a turbo-jet engine with a rocket engine for the additional thrust to move into supersonic flight, and has wings swept back 35 degrees.

Boatner to Command All Prisoner Camps

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 15 (AP)—Brig Gen. Haydon L. (Bull) Boatner, who broke the mutinous resistance of fanatic Communist prisoners on Koje Island last month, today was named commander of all UN prisoner of war camps in Korea.

His new post is called deputy commander of the second logistical command for POW affairs.

The new job does not—at least for the moment—carry a higher rank, but it gives the hard boiled infantry general broader authority and a far bigger say in UN prisoner of war affairs.

Except for high policy decisions, his will be the last word in day-to-day handling of prison camp problems.

New Sea Queen Given Roaring Reception After Historic Ocean Voyage

New York, July 15 (AP)—The superliner United States, new queen of the seas, came home today to a roaring reception with another jewel in her crown.

Droning planes zoomed overhead and vessels in the harbor sent up thunderous chorus of welcoming whistles as the big ship docked at the end of her double speed conquest of the Atlantic.

In marine annals, it was a historic homecoming. Twice, on her maiden voyage, the sleek, 53,000-ton liner had far outstripped past ocean-crossing records, both eastbound and westbound.

As the new record-holder tied up at her Hudson river pier at 8:12 a. m. (EST), she was given a noisy demonstration of homage that echoed up and down the waterfront and across the big harbor.

Fireboats spewed sunlit arches of water. Bands blared on deck and ashore. Passengers jammed the decks, waving and shouting.

Nine Hours Ahead

In setting the new east-west record, the trim, black-hulled United States had covered the 3,000 miles in three days, 12 hours and 12 minutes—nine hours and 36 minutes quicker than the British Cunard liner Queen Mary, the previous champion.

A pressing throng of more than 1,000 people, eager for a glimpse of the new ship's trimphant return, jammed the vicinity of the 46th Street pier.

After laying at anchor overnight in the outer harbor, the new ship began her leisurely glide into port about dawn.

A herd of tugboats scooted about her, and harbor ferry boats tooted lusty greetings as the ship passed the Statue of Liberty and rounded the Battery, Manhattan's southern tip.

The end of the liner's record-smashing two-way race came yesterday.

The liner steamed across the westward finish line, Ambrose lightship just outside the harbor, at 3:29 p. m. (EST).

The United States beat the Queen Mary's eastward record by 10 hours and two minutes.

Wide Open Convention Is Expected

Most Concede Kefauver Will Lead at First — Might Go to 10 Ballots

Truman Is Eyed

Agreement Is That HST Favorite, Whoever He Is, Will Win

Chicago, July 15 (AP)—A great many Democrats were busy talking, tacking up signs, making predictions and generally building up a full head of steam today for the presidential nominating convention that opens next week.

This is a multi-candidate convention, wide as the great open spaces.

Consequently, it is full of question-marks, hot and cold running rumors, speculation and bally hoo. The backers of the various aspirants—and one of the candidates, himself—have been discussing the situation, fore and aft since last weekend. But about the only points of agreement are that:

1. Nobody is going to be named on the first ballot, or even on an "early" ballot. Some guesses on roll calls ranges up to 10.

2. Sen. Estes Kefauver, the tall man from Tennessee, will hop out in front at the start. (But his lieutenants and the supporters of the other men disagree about what will happen after that.)

3. Somebody is going to get a powerful lift from President Truman and all the candidates are looking hopefully toward the White House for a sign in the sky.

No Indication Shown

If the president has glanced with interest in the direction of any of the several front-runners, there is no indication of it here. The most any of the various camps can announce is that Truman isn't opposed to their man.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, a brief visitor at the convention city last night, said he is certain" the President is not against me."

Sen. Richard B. Russell's campaign manager, Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, told newsmen Russell had seen the President last week but that he did not know what passed between them.

And Kefauver's campaign commander, Gael Sullivan, ridiculed the suggestion that either the President or the Democratic Party leaders are opposed to Kefauver. "Pure nonsense put out by his opponents," said Sullivan.

Each of these headquarters confidently discusses the outlook when the roll is called out yonder in the stockyards next week.

Claims 300 Votes

Russell's camp says he has 300 convention votes—it takes 616 to win the nomination—and a solid bloc of southern support. It will increase, Sen. Johnson sail, to the winning point "around the 10th ballot—or rather, I'll say the last ballot."

Sullivan told this reporter he wouldn't be "mouse trapped into discussing an estimate of Kefau-

Hotel Is Burned

At Least One Person Dies in Fairbanks Blaze; Others Sought

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 15 (AP)—Punctuated by explosive bursts of flame, a fire raced through the old Pioneer Hotel here early yesterday, leveling the three-story structure in two hours and leaving at least one person dead.

Police Chief Floyd Clower listed five persons as missing and said eight were hospitalized with burns. Clower said the toll may go higher as firemen probe the ashes of the wooden building today.

He pointed out that only 180 of the 250 persons registered at the hotel had reported in to police headquarters 20 hours after the fire had died down, despite urgent radio and newspaper pleas.

A light rain, tinged with an eerie half-light in this land of the midnight sun, kept the flames from spreading.

A union shop requires all employes to join the union. The Pittsburgh steel type of union shop stipulated that all new employes must join but can drop out between the 20th and 30th days of work.

The wage proposal made by the companies calls for a 24.6 cent hourly pay package. The package would include a 16 cent an hour outright increase and the remainder in fringe benefits.

The wage stabilization board, when it was trying to avert the strike, recommended a 26½ cent hourly package and a union shop as terms for a new contract.

Must Tolerate Dean

London, July 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that the Red Dean of Canterbury had to be tolerated as part of the price of free speech. "Free speech carries with it the evil of all the foolish, unpleasant, venomous things that are said, but on the whole we would rather lump them than do away with them," Churchill said. To "lump it" is British slang for "suffering" it.

Eisenhower Plans Rest In Denver

GOP Nominee and Wife Get Ovation Upon Return From Chicago Convention

Taft Supporter Pledges Aid, Says All Must Pull Together

Denver, July 15 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower looked forward eagerly today to a vacation of trout fishing and perhaps some golf before turning full attention to "a long, hard campaign" as the Republican presidential nominee.

The general and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived here last night after a four-hour flight from Chicago—where he won the GOP nomination last Friday—and got a big ovation from several thousand persons on hand to welcome them.

Eisenhower gave the cheering crowd a broad smile, waved his hat, then stepped to a microphone and said:

"When we left here a week ago Thursday I made a prophesy: That good, common honest Americans would be in charge of the Republican convention—and they were.

Sees Hard Campaign

"There's a long, hard campaign ahead of us. Every one of us has got to work and scrap. I can't think of a better place (than Denver) for a long breath for what is ahead of us.

"We're glad to be back."

Then he got into an open car and rode seven miles to the Brown Palace Hotel with Mayor Quigg Newton of Denver and Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado.

Thornton played a leading role at the Chicago convention in charting strategy which won the nomination for Eisenhower over Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Eisenhower set up a headquarters here shortly after he returned from Europe June 1. He left Denver aboard a special train July 3 for Chicago, making a whistle stop campaign along the way.

After a brief stay last night at his eighth floor suite in the Brown Palace, the general and his wife spent the night at the home of her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, who returned from Chicago with the triumphant party.

Plans Fishing Trip

Just before boarding his plane in Chicago, Eisenhower said he had had a very busy week and that his time had been "very crowded" since he came home from Europe six weeks ago.

"I hope to hide away (after getting to Denver) and catch some trout," Eisenhower said grinning.

On his arrival here, he was asked at the airport when he planned to go fishing. He said he hoped to get started "day after tomorrow"—Wednesday.

In Chicago, he got in a final round of conferences on campaign matters and spent a good part of the afternoon visiting with his son, John, an army major, who is slated to leave for Korean in a few days. The major was accompanied from Highland Falls, N. Y., by his wife.

Eisenhower's last Chicago caller was Walter Hallahan of West Virginia, a Taft supporter who was temporary chairman of the GOP convention.

Must Pull Together

Hallahan was with the general only a minute. He told newsmen afterward he had pledged his support and he quoted the general as

Slides Down Peak, Has Only Bruises

Dunsmuir, Calif., July 15 (AP)—A San Francisco mountain climber fell nearly a mile down the almost-vertical, snowy side of 14,165-foot Mt. Shasta yesterday and escaped with only bruises and abrasions.

Dan O'Neill, 34, said the only thing that saved his life was his use of swimming techniques to avoid rocks and other obstacles in his 40-mile an hour, head-first slide on his stomach.

"I kept my head, used my toes as brakes and steered with my forearms," he said.

Russian Doubts War Unless West Gives Opportunity

Under Favorable Terms Stalin Would Not Hesitate, Declares Engineer

Bonn, Germany, July 15 (AP)—A bushy-haired Russian, described by American officials as the "most knowledgeable" civilian deserter to the west in recent years, told a news conference today he does not believe there will be any major war for several years.

But if "international dissensions between the western nations ever become serious enough to give the Soviets the advantage," he warned, Stalin would not hesitate to throw his troops into war.

The Russian is 32-year-old Eugeny Volchansky, an engineer who worked for six months in East Germany as the official Soviet representative at a factory before he escaped to the west with the aid of friendly Germans. He has applied for political asylum.

"Stalin desires others to fight for his objectives," said Volchansky. "If he decides, however, that a favorable time for war has come, he will then use Soviet Troops."

People Oppose War

"The idea of war is completely repugnant to the Russian people," he said, but added:

"I believe that Russians would fight if they were convinced that they were again defending their homeland. And because the Soviets have the greatest propaganda apparatus known to many, it is highly conceivable that they could be so convinced."

Volchansky said one deterrent to the Soviets' starting a shooting war "is the fact that revolution within the USSR would be possible under war conditions."

Revolution? Not Now

"Today revolution is unthinkable because of the entanglement of controls exercised over the peolpe. In wartime, a disturbed and resentful people would be able to liberate themselves upon receiving arms."

If a cold war lasts and a hot war is averted, there is a long-range possibility that revolution without war can occur in the Soviet Union, Volchansky said, adding:

"This can only happen if the people can organize themselves, find adequate leadership, run frightful risks and arm themselves."

He reported active resistance to Moscow regime among both the military and civilian population in the Soviet Union and in Communist-run East Germany.

Art Exhibit Is Being Hung; Will Open Wednesday, 7:30

Area scenes and myths, preserved on canvas by early 19th century artists of the Hudson River school, were being hung along with portraits and still life paintings in the George Washington School's gymnasium on Monday afternoon, in preparation for Kingston's Art Show which opens Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and continues daily thereafter from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. through August 17.

Trucks from Boston arrived Monday morning, carrying the Karolik and Vose collections; a station wagon from Albany arrived piled high with the Albany Institute of History and Art collection; a local truck unloaded expressed crates from the Metropolitan Museum of New York city, boldly stenciled "Value, $8,000." Local county residents proudly carried in carefully wrapped packages containing family heirlooms.

Expert Direction

White aproned attendants were carefully handling the group of 19th century paintings and hanging them under the direction of Mrs. Emily C. Chadbourne, Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton and guests Maxim Karolik and Robert Vose.

The two guests will speak to Kingstonians at the preview showing on Wednesday night.

Noted Authority

Karolik, in addition to being a world-famed art authority and collector, is one of the most colorful and interesting personages the city has entertained. Consumed with a burning zeal to make America conscious of her cultural heritage in art and music, he is modest about personalities, preferring to talk about his mission.

From a nucleus of antiques which his wife inherited, Karolik built up a collection of 144 pieces of early American furniture, which he has loaned to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts for exhibit. From antiques, his interest spread to paintings of the period of 1815 to 1865—a period once thought to be the "dark ages" of American art.

Of his extensive collection, he had loaned 34 pieces to Kingston for this show in connection with the city's 300th Anniversary. This same collection next year will tour the middle-West. Other items in his collection are at the

The superliner United States steams past Ambrose Lightship (arrow, upper right) as she arrives in New York easily breaking the westward speed record across the North Atlantic. She made the trip from England in three days, 12 hours and 12 minutes and beat the British liner Queen Mary's 14-year-old westward record by nine hours and 36 minutes. The vessel also clipped the Queen Mary's record on the eastward crossing.

Superliner Is Back With Second Crossing Conquest

New Sea Queen Given Roaring Reception After Historic Ocean Voyage

New York, July 15 (AP)—The superliner United States, new queen of the seas, came home today to a roaring reception with another jewel in her crown.

Droning planes zoomed overhead and vessels in the harbor sent up thunderous chorus of welcoming whistles as the big ship docked at the end of her double speed conquest of the Atlantic.

In marine annals, it was a historic homecoming. Twice, on her maiden voyage, the sleek, 53,000-ton liner had far outstripped past ocean-crossing records, both eastbound and westbound.

As the new record-holder tied up at her Hudson river pier at 8:12 a. m. (EST), she was given a noisy demonstration of homage that echoed up and down the waterfront and across the big harbor.

Fireboats spewed sunlit arches of water. Bands blared on deck and ashore. Passengers jammed the decks, waving and shouting.

Nine Hours Ahead

In setting the new east-west record, the trim, black-hulled United States had covered the 3,000 miles in three days, 12 hours and 12 minutes—nine hours and 36 minutes quicker than the British Cunard liner Queen Mary, the previous champion.

A pressing throng of more than 1,000 people, eager for a glimpse of the new ship's trimphant return, jammed the vicinity of the 46th Street pier.

After laying at anchor overnight in the outer harbor, the new ship began her leisurely glide into port about dawn.

A herd of tugboats scooted about her, and harbor ferry boats tooted lusty greetings as the ship passed the Statue of Liberty and rounded the Battery, Manhattan's southern tip.

The end of the liner's record-smashing two-way race came yesterday.

The liner steamed across the westward finish line, Ambrose lightship just outside the harbor, at 3:29 p. m. (EST).

The United States beat the Queen Mary's eastward record by 10 hours and two minutes.

Flight Confirmed Of Research Plane

Report Discloses Craft Has Flown Twice Speed of Sound

Moffett Field, Calif., July 15 (AP)—An apparently inadvertent disclosure that the Skyrocket research airplane has flown twice the speed of sound was confirmed here today.

It also was indicated that the Skyrocket carries refrigeration equipment enough to cool a theatre of 3,000 seats.

This would be necessary—in an airplane flying more than 1,300 miles an hour—in order to keep the pilot from being roasted, and to keep the airplane metal from turning soft.

The navy has announced officially only that Douglas test pilot Bill Bridgeman flew its D558-II Skyrocket faster and higher than any other piloted aircraft has travelled.

Flown Last August

The details were kept secret. The new world speed and altitude records were set over the Mojave Desert near Edwards Air Force base, Calif., last August.

At an air show at Edwards last Saturday, however, an announcer said the Skyrocket had flown more than 1,300 miles an hour.

A fellow officer said later that the announcer had been authorized only to say the plane was capable of that speed.

The altitude mark—"more than 79,000 feet"—was in an article in the aviation trade magazine Pegasus a month ago.

The Skyrocket was launched from a B-29 mother ship, at about 30,000 feet, for the start of its record-breaking flight.

It has a turbo-jet engine with a rocket engine for the additional thrust to move into supersonic flight, and has wings swept back 35 degrees.

Boatner to Command All Prisoner Camps

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 15 (AP)—Brig Gen. Haydon L. (Bull) Boatner, who broke the mutinous resistance of fanatic Communist prisoners on Koje Island last month, today was named commander of all UN prisoner of war camps in Korea.

His new post is called deputy commander of the second logistical command for POW affairs.

The new job does not—at least for the moment—carry a higher rank, but it gives the hard boiled infantry general broader authority and a far bigger say in UN prisoner of war affairs.

Except for high policy decisions, his will be the last word in day-to-day handling of prison camp problems.

Wide Open Convention Is Expected

Most Concede Kefauver Will Lead at First — Might Go to 10 Ballots

Truman Is Eyed

Agreement Is That HST Favorite, Whoever He Is, Will Win

Chicago, July 15 (AP)—A great many Democrats were busy talking, tacking up signs, making predictions and generally building up a full head of steam today for the presidential nominating convention that opens next week.

This is a multi-candidate convention, wide as the great open spaces.

Consequently, it is full of question-marks, hot and cold running rumors, speculation and bally hoo. The backers of the various aspirants—and one of the candidates, himself—have been discussing the situation, fore and aft since last weekend. But about the only points of agreement are that:

1. Nobody is going to be named on the first ballot, or even on an "early" ballot. Some guesses on roll calls ranges up to 10.

2. Sen. Estes Kefauver, the tall man from Tennessee, will hop out in front at the start. (But his lieutenants and the supporters of the other men disagree about what will happen after that.)

3. Somebody is going to get a powerful lift from President Truman and all the candidates are looking hopefully toward the White House for a sign in the sky.

No Indication Shown

If the president has glanced with interest in the direction of any of the several front-runners, there is no indication of it here. The most any of the various camps can announce is that Truman isn't opposed to their man.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, a brief visitor at the convention city last night, said he is certain" the President is not against me."

Sen. Richard B. Russell's campaign manager, Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, told newsmen Russell had seen the President last week but that he did not know what passed between them.

And Kefauver's campaign commander, Gael Sullivan, ridiculed the suggestion that either the President or the Democratic Party leaders are opposed to Kefauver. "Pure nonsense put out by his opponents," said Sullivan.

Each of these headquarters confidently discusses the outlook when the roll is called out yonder in the stockyards next week.

Claims 300 Votes

Russell's camp says he has 300 convention votes—it takes 616 to win the nomination—and a solid bloc of southern support. It will increase, Sen. Johnson sail, to the winning point "around the 10th ballot—or rather, I'll say the last ballot."

Sullivan told this reporter he wouldn't be "mouse trapped into discussing an estimate of Kefau-

Hotel Is Burned

At Least One Person Dies in Fairbanks Blaze; Others Sought

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 15 (AP)—Punctuated by explosive bursts of flame, a fire raced through the old Pioneer Hotel here early yesterday, leveling the three-story structure in two hours and leaving at least one person dead.

Police Chief Floyd Clower listed five persons as missing and said eight were hospitalized with burns. Clower said the toll may go higher as firemen probe the ashes of the wooden building today.

He pointed out that only 180 of the 250 persons registered at the hotel had reported in to police headquarters 20 hours after the fire had died down, despite urgent radio and newspaper pleas.

A light rain, tinged with an eerie half-light in this land of the midnight sun, kept the flames from spreading.

Sees Ike Getting Democrat Votes; Victory at Polls

New York, July 15 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says Dwight D. Eisenhower will get "wonderful support from Democrats as well as independents" and will win the presidency in November.

"I believe the Republicans can beat any one the Democrats nominate," Dewey said last night on returning from the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

The New York governor said he was "delighted with the way Senator (Robert A.) Taft and all good Republicans are closing ranks to bring about victory in November for a forward-looking, responsible, Republican administration."

He told newsmen he thought Eisenhower's nomination as the GOP presidential candidate "will save both America and the free world."

The Republican party, Dewey said, again has "taken its place in the cause of world leadership for peace."

Says Lesson Was Learned

As for the election campaign, he said he sees no danger of overconfidence in the party, adding:

"The people learned a very good lesson in 1948. They will not be complacent."

Dewey, the GOP presidential candidate in the past two elections, said he was proud of the way the 96-member state delegation supported Eisenhower for the nomination.

The delegation gave Eisenhower 92 votes on the original first ballot roll call. Taft got four New York state votes.

Dewey visited his mother in Owosso, Mich., before returning here from the convention.

He plans to catch up on his work at his official residence here—in the Roosevelt Hotel—and then head for his farm at Pawling, N. Y., Thursday.

Plans Long Rest

There, the governor said, he will "pitch hay and milk cows."

First, he will appoint legislative commissions and seek a temporary appointee to fill the shoes of his secretary, James C. Hagerty, who now is serving Eisenhower as press secretary.

At the moment, Dewey said, he isn't thinking much about his part in a state campaign for the party.

"Right now I want to rest," he said.

Hague Stays Home

Jersey City, N. J., July 15 (AP)—A "stay-home" order from his physician prevents Frank Hague, 76-year-old onetime boss of the New Jersey Democratic party, from going to this year's national convention. It will be the first time in 32 years that Hague, recuperating from a recent operation, isn't part of the New Jersey contingent to the party's convention. Hague gave his proxy to Charles Quinn, Trenton lawyer who is secretary of the State Democratic Committee, it was announced yesterday. Since 1949, when he toppled from state leadership by the defeat of his administration in Jersey City, Hague has dropped steadily out of active participation in party affairs.

Would Go to Capital

Pusan, Korea, July 15 (AP)—Political leaders in Seoul today petitioned President Syngman Rhee for the early return of the Republic of Korea government to the capital at Seoul. A spokesman for Rhee said the government here temporarily, desired to return to Seoul soon but that "it depends on the outcome of the armistice negotiations at Panmunjom."

To Follow Truman

Sea Girt, July 15 (AP)—Democratic party leaders in New Jersey indicate that delegates to the national convention will follow President Truman's choice for the presidential nomination, if he should make it known. More than 150 delegates, alternates and party leaders heard Averell Harriman, mutual security administrator, make a bid last night for support of the state's 32-vote delegation. Harriman appealed for a fighting liberal front to produce a strong platform and tried to woo support from the 36 delegates, many of whom lean toward Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

To Follow Truman

Sea Girt, July 15 (AP)—Democratic party leaders in New Jersey indicate that delegates to the national convention will follow President Truman's choice for the presidential nomination, if he should make it known. More than 150 delegates, alternates and party leaders heard Averell Harriman, mutual security administrator, make a bid last night for support of the state's 32-vote delegation. Harriman appealed for a fighting liberal front to produce a strong platform and tried to woo support from the 36 delegates, many of whom lean toward Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Airman Is Charged In Woman's Death

Washington, July 15—An argument that flared up when an attractive Pentagon employe walked nude into the living room of her apartment, apparently unaware a man was painting it, is believed to have led to her strangulation-murder.

The victim was Miss Codie A. Whitman, 39, whose fully clothed body was found in a bedroom closet of her apartment yesterday, two days after her murder. She came to Washington about six years ago from Cumberland, Md.

Police have charged Harry Clifford Porter, 24, airman third class attached to the 1025th Air Force Squadron, with her death. He is a native of Casper, Wyo.

Police report this is the story they have pieced together.

Porter, a gangling, bespectacled Koren War veteran, apparently had taken the job painting the apartment to pick up some extra money. He was hired by the apartment manager.

Angry Words Followed

He entered Miss Whitman's apartment Saturday and began painting. Apparently not knowing Porter was there, Miss Whitman walked nude from her shower into the living room. Angry words followed, and she went into her bedroom.

Porter told police she kept opening her bedroom door and he kept shutting it, and later she came out and "jumped" at him. At this point, he said, he suffered a dizzy spell, and remembers nothing until he saw her lying on the floor dead.

Body Found Monday

He then picked up her body, he said, and moved it into a bedroom closet.

The body was not found until yesterday after Pentagon friends of Miss Whitman, knowing she had a heart ailment, became alarmed when she failed to report for work and telephoned apartment officials to investigate.

Porter was arrested when he returned to the building last night to continue painting.

Detroit, July 15 (AP)—General Motors today announced the perfection of an air conditioning system for passenger cars. C. E. Wilson, GM president, said the air conditioning unit, developed after several years of experimentation, will be made available, as optional equipment, on the 1953 model Oldsmobile and Cadillac cars.

Only Half of Posts Are Being Manned

New York, July 15 (AP) — Thousands of volunteer New Yorkers were scanning the skies today against a possible sneak enemy air attack, but only half the planned number of observation posts in the state were being manned.

Civil Defense blueprints call for 605 observation posts, but CD officials reported yesterday, the first day of a 27-state round-the-clock vigil, that only 54 per cent of them were operative in New York.

The rest were knocked out by a shortage of personnel.

Exactly how many of the state's 30,000 trained airplane spotters reported for duty could not be determined by Civil Defense officials.

Cub Day Is Held

Six Cub Packs participated in the first annual Cub Day at Camp Tri Mount Saturday with the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America as sponsors and Scout Executive George V. Dennis in charge of the event.

Cub Scouts and parents arrived at Camp Tri Mount shortly after noon, and a guide then conducted each Pack on a tour of the camp facilities. A water carnival was presented by the Boy Scouts on the lakefront, and then the Cubs were entertained at a campfire on the parade grounds.

The campfire ceremonies were opened by Cub Pack 26 of Port Ewen presenting an Indian campfire lighting ceremony in complete Indian costumes. An official welcome to the camp was extended by Francis W. Teel, camp director, followed by songs and demonstrations led by Scout Executive Dennis and camp leader Robert Tremper.

One of the highlights was a "treasure hunt" with a numbered watermelon hidden for each Cub Pack participating. Winners in this contest were: Pack 15, Church of the Comforter, first place; Pack 26, Port Ewen, P-TA, second; Pack 7, St. John's Episcopal Church, third; Pack 70, Inter-Church Committee of Highland, fourth; Pack 12, First Dutch Church, Kingston, fifth. Pack 13, P-TA of School 7, Kingston, did not participate due to late arrival.

Following a picnic supper enjoyed by the Cubs and their parents, Retreat of colors was held on the parade grounds, with Camp Tri Mount directors, Boy Scouts in camp, and all Cub Scouts in attendance. Buglers H. Phillips Eighmey, Roger Nickerson, and William Niles, all of Pack 15, sounded the bugle calls in connection with the flag ceremony.

Appropriation Is Asked to Defray Teacher Service

The Mental Health Committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association has recommended to the association's board of directors that it appropriate $400 to meet half the cost of an in-service program for Ulster county school teachers to help them understand the children they teach.

The program, as outlined to the committee by Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, requires three years with teacher study groups meeting for one or two hours every two weeks during the school year, under the guidance of Dr. Prescott or one of his assistants.

Started in Maryland

Begun at the University of Maryland in 1944, the program has since been offered to 16,000 teachers in communities throughout the country.

Discussion of the program followed a report received by the Mental Health Committee showing interest in the Institute for Ulster County School Administrators, which was held at Williams Lake. The report was given at the July 9 meeting of the committee by Dr. Edward F. Shea, chairman; John H. Martin, principal of Kingston High School, and Miss Abigail Stokes, of Kerhonkson.

The institute was sponsored by the Mental Health Committee in cooperation with the State Departments of Education and Mental Hygiene. The reports stressed the discussions carried on for administrators by Dr. Prescott, of the Institute for Child Study at the University of Maryland, and by Dr. Edward Stainbrook of the Yale Psychiatric Clinic.

A letter from the Kingston Board of Education reporting its members' interest in the Prescott Study Course was read, and it was reported that the board voted to appropriate money for one or two groups of their teachers who wished to participate in the in-service training program.

U. S. Clerics Ask Queen To Act on 'Red Dean'

London, July 15 (AP)—A group of American Protestant clergymen arriving in Britain today said said they had sent a message to Queen Elizabeth urging that something be done about the "Red dean" of Canterbury.

Dr. Carl McIntire, of New York, president of the International Council of Christian Churches, said he sent a telegram to the queen telling her that the "pro-Communist propaganda of Dr. Newlett Johnson is hurting the cause of Christianity and freedom."

Biggest uproar over the 78-year-old dean's political activities came last week when he returned from China with claims the Americans are using germ warfare in the Far East.

British newspapers ridiculed what he offered as evidence and called for him to resign.

The dean's appointment from the crown gives him a lifetime post as administrator of Britain's Premier Cathedral in Canterbury.

Masks Are Prohibited

Binghamton, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—The drowning of a 6-year-old boy has led to a ban on underwater swimming masks in Chenango Valley State Park. The masks, with glass in front, cover a swimmer's eyes and nose but leave the mouth free for breathing. They permit a swimmer to see clearly underwater. The boy, Richard Christensen of College Point, was asphyxiated Sunday when the mask he was wearing apparently slipped over his mouth and prevented him from exhaling.

Monsoon Floods Claim 30

New Delhi, India, July 15 (AP)—Thirty persons have been drowned in monsoon floods, reports from Jaipur said today. The area lies 145 miles southwest of New Delhi. Albany, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—The State Health Department says that preliminary results of one of the first studies in the field suggest there is a relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

The department announced yesterday that the study would be discussed at an international conference in Louvain, Belgium, July 21-23, by Dr. Morton L. Levin of Albany, an assistant commissioner. The department added that Dr. Levin would present findings collected by department investigators at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo.

Helicopters Off For Atlantic Hop

Westover Air Force Base, Mass., July 15 (AP)—Two huge helicopters—pointed for Europe—took off at 8 a. m (EST) today in an attempt to make the first helicopter flight across the Atlantic.

The "flying windmills," heavily laden with big supplies of gasoline, got off the ground after taxiing along runways instead of the customary straight-up takeoff of helicopters.

The Military Transport Service (MATS) craft were given a sendoff by a group of helicopter enthusiasts including Maj. Igor Sikorsky, pioneer in the field.

The craft—the Hop-A-Long and the Whirl-O-Way — accompanied by a C-54 service plane, are testing the feasibility of delivering helicopters by air to Europe.

Their route, which carries them from the sweltering New Englant heat to within three degrees of the Arctic Circle, will cover 4,000 miles to Weisbaden, Germany.

STUDENTS TO INDIA

Eleven students from the University of California will make an eight week tour of India in an effort to promote better understanding between the peoples of India and the United States. The young men and women, members of an all faith organization at the University, hope to demonstrate to people of India that people in the United States live together and work together in harmony despite religious difference. The group is made up of students of the Catholic, Jewish, Protestant Episcopal, Greek Orthodox, Christian Scientist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Lutheran, Congregational Christian and Mormon faiths.

The young Americans will learn as much from their time in India as they will teach. True understanding among peoples is impossible unless they can get to know one another's beliefs, habits and customs. The students will return to the United States and because of their trip their friends, neighbors and parents will have a better chance to know something first-hand about people in India.

Student trips can accomplish much good. Perhaps in the long run individuals coming to know each other intimately can accomplish more good will than can government programs. Just now we need both.

WOMEN AND CONVENTIONS

This year 122 women attended the Republican convention as delegates, nine more than ever attended any previous convention. The figure demonstrates that women are playing a more important role in politics than they ever have before. They are not only voting in the general elections but they are also attending the important meetings of the great parties and helping to set the policies of those parties.

This trend toward more active participation in politics by women is encouraging to those who believe that democracy can work only when all citizens are interested enough in government to make it work. Women play a dual role in our national life. As citizens they have the same stake in the national future as men; as wives and mothers they have a great influence on their husbands and on their children, the future citizens.

A woman who has a real interest in how the country is governed will pass along this interest to her children. She will work herself, and encourage her husband to work for better local, state and federal government. The large number of women who attended the Republican convention and who will attend the Democratic one is an indication that the dream of those who worked to get for women the right to vote is being realized.

DISTINGUISHED ANCESTORS

A Washington wants to go to Washington. State Senator Nat Washington of Ephrata, Pa., is running for the Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large in the September 9 primaries. He is a descendant of John Augustine Washington, George's younger brother.

The Father of His Country had no immediate children and Washingtons have been few in public life. His nephew Bushrod was appointed by President John Adams as associate justice of the Supreme Court in 1798, serving till his death in 1829. He lies buried at Mt. Vernon.

Lincoln had one noted son, Robert T. Lincolmn, who was minister to Great Britain under Garfield and Arthur, and secretary of war under Benjamin Harrison. He was also president of the Pullman Co. He died in 1926.

Some people who try to trace their ancestry back to distinguished forebears would give anything to be able to show a line going back to Washington or Lincoln. Others minimize the deeds of their ancestors and dig in to accomplish aims of their own.

PEACE THROUGH WEAPONS

An exhibition of historic weapons was held recently at the famous Tower of London. Among the weapons displayed there was the original flintlock rifle, great-grandfather of present day rifles, When the flintlock rifle was developed it was considered as frightening a weapon as the atomic bomb is considered today.

The designer of the weapon, Bidet Levondini, believed that his rifle might be a disguised blessing for mankind. The flintlock was so horrible a weapon, according to its inventor, that it made all future wars unthinkable.

How familiar the words sound! After the atomic bomb was dropped optimists predicted that the nature of this new and terrible instrument of destruction precluded any possibility of future wars. Today the world stands on the brink of the most terrible war in its history.

The answer to men's problems of peaceful relations lies not in weapons. At the moment it is necessary for America to be strong. But real peace can only come when force and military threats are replaced by understanding.

Editors' Roundtable

James Galloway, Moderator

Herbert Hoover's idea, set forth again in his speech to the GOP convention, that America's contribution to West European defense should be limited mainly to air power is still opposed by the large majority of editors. A small minority argues that whatever ground forces are necessary in any plan of European defense should be contributed by the European nations. But the majority view is that only continued American contribution of ground forces will encourage West Europe to create an army adequate to cooperate in NATO strategy with American air power.

Washington (D. C.) Star (Ind.): "Hoover thinks the policies to which we are committed in Europe will impose on us an economic burden we cannot carry. He thinks we are paying a price we cannot afford for a measure of security which is at best of dubious value. We warns of 'phantom armies' and pleads for his own concept of cheaper security in the form of air power . . . It is enough to say that not one of our responsible military men, so far as we know, is in agreement with Hoover. It may be pointed out, however, that over all the long years of recurring crises, Hoover has tended to underestimate American capacities."

Chicago Tribune (Ind.): "Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, former war plans officer for Gen. MacArthur in the Pacific, asserts that it is absurd to think that 25 Atlantic Pact divisions, with another 25 supposed to spring to arms within 30 days, could stop a Russian force of 175 divisions, supported by 60 divisions from Communist satellites. The western force does not even exist at projected strength. It is supposed to exist by the end of the year. It is then supposed to be backed by 4,000 aircraft. Against this air force, said Gen. Fellers, the Russians can fill the sky with 20,000 Red air force planes."

Tampa, (Fla.) Tribune (Ind.-Dem.): "It is quite clear, as Hoover implied that there is no hope of matching the Russians bayonet for bayonet. But Western strategy is not based on any such program. What Eisenhower and other military leaders have worked for is the mobilization of enough of a collective force to hold up a Russian advance until such time as our bombers could blast the attackers and demolish communication and supply lines . . . Under no other assumption is there a possibility of successfully stimulating a will-to-fight in Western Europe."

Charlotte (N. C.) Observer (Ind.-Dem.): "It has not been a ground army that has kept Russia from attacking Western Europe so far, and it will not be a ground army that will hold her back in the future; but it has been the fear of atomic bombing of her cities, her industrial installations, and her sources of oil . . . .We do not believe Hoover intended to convey the impression that NATO or the European plan should be given up. . . . Let Europe furnish the ground troops, which we cannot spare. If they are willing to do that, we shall help. We shall supply the air force and much of the equipment for the ground army."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Dem.): "Though Hoover doubts the will of European countries to resist, it is a fact that their army divisions are on hand and that in the case of France and Britain they are actively fighting communism in other parts of the world. We cannot cut down the sending of men and money to Western Europe until it has made a Gibraltar of itself for the good reason that it is only this concrete aid that will help create the desired strength among our allies. . . . If our European friends believed America capable of embracing the 'fortress' policy at this late date, communism would have its greatest windfall."

DIABETES AND OVERWEIGHT

It is true that diabetes runs in families; we have all seen a thin member of a diabetic family acquire much excess weight to be followed by the development of diabetes. Fortunately, as Dr. E. P. Joslin, Boston, has so often pointed out, if members of a diabetic family do not allow themselves to become overweight, they can avoid this development of diabetes.

What about reducing their weight after diabetes has developed? In Stamford Medical Bulletin, San Francisco, Dr. G. B. Robson reports the case of a woman, aged 27, who had frequent urination and had been in a diabetic coma for 8 hours. After 8 hours she had received 575 units of insulin. Then, after about 15 hours, she improved rapidly and by the third day was back to normal mentally. She weighed 174 pounds. At first she was put on a diet of 2,550 calories (normal) later, one of 1,500 calories. In four months her weight was reduced to 154 pounds (20 pounds less) and her insulin dose was decreased until none was required.

Five years later, following regaining of the lost weight, she returned with the characteristic findings of diabetes. Dr. Robson states that his observations definitely prove that obese diabetics can achieve a normal condition, free from diabetes, with loss of weight.

At Dr. Robson's clinic it has become the practice never to give obese diabetics insulin unless complications make it advisable. He has seen patients requiring as much as 150 units of insulin daily who have lost all symptoms of diabetes merely by reducing their weight. In addition, it has been found that diabetics who remain overweight commonly have diabetic retinitis (cataracts), disturbances of the kidneys and other symptoms, whereas those who lost weight and cured their diabetes have remained free of these complications.

The above is just one more instance to encourage members of diabetic families not to allow themselves to become overweight. The fact that they are members of a diabetic family need cause them no worry as long as they do not allow themselves to become overweight.

A Welcome Summer Breeze

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Congress was in such a hurry to pack up and go to the conventions that legislation was ground out in wholesale lots without investigation or debate. Most senators and congressmen had no idea what they were voting on. As a result, several sleepers slipped through, as follows:

Tax Gravy—Senator George of Georgia introduced a complicated amendment to the excess-profits tax supposed to adjust the rates for fabricators of strategic metals. Significantly, however, the amendment was tailormade to reduce the taxes of one brass company of Bridgeport, Conn., whose owner happens to be Herman Steinkraus, outgoing president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. George has long been close to Ellsworth Alvord, tax adviser of the Chamber of Commerce.

Claims Gravy — Congressman Beall of Maryland tried to slip through a bill, authorizing the Willmore Engineering Company of Baltimore to collect a $244,000 claim. It so happens that the claim had already been turned down by the Court of Claims and the U. S. District Court. In fact, the claim was so fantastic that the courts ordered the FBI to investigate the Willmore Company for alleged fraud. Yet Congressman Beall tried to get Congress to pay the claim that the FBI is now investigating as fraudulent. Fortunately he failed.

Booby Trap

Airline Gravy—The big airlines almost booby trapped the small airlines with a bill that would have put them out of business. It would have allowed the Civil Aeronautics Board to slap $1,000 fines on the small, unscheduled lines for minor infractions of rules.

For five years, the C.A.B. has faithfully followed big airlines pressure in trying to squeeze small lines out of business. But the courts have consistently stuck up for the little airlines. The new bill would have circumvented the courts, and allowed the C.A.B. to fine the little lines.

The bill was drafted by Ed Sweeney, well known as the big airlines' friend on the Senate Aviation Subcommittee staff. In order to fool the senators, Sweeney prepared a report declaring that the comptroller-general and attorney general were in favor of the bill. This was not true. In the end, Senator Sparkman exposed the sleeper and blocked it on the Senate floor.

Tax Plums—Senator Martin of Pennsylvania pushed through a tax amandment made to order for two companies—the Budd Company of Philadelphia and the Sangawo Electric Company of Springfield, Illinois.

All these bills were introduced the last minute without a hearing —in the hope that they would be overlooked and enacted into law in the smoke and confusion of Congress' last days.

Pay-Toilets Lobby — One bill which didn't quite sneak through was the amendment to benefit the Pennsylvania Railroad and increase its pay-toilets charge from five to ten cents despite an OPS price ceiling. The man who pulled wires to pass this amendment was none other than President Truman's former counsel, Clark Clifford, and the senator who went to bat for the pay toilets was Allan Frear of Delaware. Though the railroad pushed through its pay-toilet hike, it also wanted exemption from the $285,000 triple damage suit brought against it by OPS for violating price ceilings on pay toilets. This suit was also introduced by "pay toilets" Frear, however, though Congress agreed to dime toilets it refused to knock out the law suit. Unlike the Pennsylvania the New York Central had increased pay toilets to ten cents in the Grand Central Station prior to the OPS ruling, but reduced the rate after the ruling was made.

G. I. Bonus

In contrast to the way private bills benefiting a few people were sneaked through Congress, here is the play-by-play story of a tough, 2-year-battle to secure a combat bonus for GI's in Korea.

Almost two years ago, September 1950, this columnist pointed to the unfairness of a service pay system which gave extra risk bonuses to pilots and submarine crews but none to the boys in the foxholes. Senator Tom Connally of Texas took up the cudgels by inserting the column in the Congressional Record, following which Senator Dick Russell of Georgia introduced a bill giving a $50-a-month combat bonus. Russell did his best to push the bill, but was finally defeated in his own Armed Services Committee.

At this point, three young senators took up the cudgels for the GI's—Moody of Michigan, Long of Louisiana, and Monroney of Oklahoma, all Democrats.

Since under Senate rules it is impossible for the chairman of a committee to appeal a bill to the full Senate if it has been defeated in his committee, Long, with Russell's blessing, made such an appeal. He brought the combat bonus bill out on the Senate floor, where it was defeated. Some of the same Senators who maneuvered backstage to slip private bills through Congress during the recent session voted against the GI's in Korea.

Moody Rider

However, Senator Moody, undiscouraged, adopted a new tack. In order to get a new vote he reduced the bonus from $50 to $45 a month, then demanded a roll call. This meant that every senator would have to stand up and be counted for or against the G.I.'s. Naturally, none wanted a roll-call vote, so the combat bonus was passed at $45 monthly.

However, in the House of Representatives the bill was killed. Republican economizers turned thumbs down. However, Senator Moody filed notice that when the military appropriations bill came up he would move to suspend the rules in order to attach a "foxhole rider" to the bill. This is a difficult thing to do, because the "foxhole rider," or combat bonus, meant completely new legislation and would require a two-thirds vote of approval if a single senator objected.

To make sure he got a two-thirds vote, Moody, with the support of Senator Styles Bridges, Republican, of New Hampshire, and his friends Long and Monroney, telephoned more than half the members of the Senate and got their approval.

Thus, the foxhole rider still had to pass the House, where Congressmen George Mahon of Texas and Dan Flood of Pennsylvania, members of the joint committee on military appropriations, went to bat. At first they failed. In the privacy of the committee, the vote went against them.

However, the friends of the G.I. did not stop.

They enlisted the help of Majority Leader John McCormack of Mass., Alfred Sieminski of New Jersey, a Korea veteran, Louis Rabaut and Thaddeus Machrowicz of Detroit, all Democrats; Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Mass., Republican. They threatened to carry the fight to the floor of the House, where every congressman would have to stand up and vote for or against the G. I.'s.

This threat, plus the astute leadership of Moody and the final support of Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, finally put the combat bonus bill through. It is now a matter of law, and the extra checks to G.I.'s in the foxholes should be in the mail fairly soon.

The City That Does Not Exist

A mirage appears in bright daylight near Mazara del Vallo, Sicily, on the Mediterranean opposite the shores of North Africa. Fantastic structures seem to emerge out of the water—towers, houses and terraces, white and pink with green stripes as if indicating gardens and parks. The vision is most startling, and is confirmed by historical and scientific references. A legend claims that a prehistoric city was submerged in the waves as punishment for its sins long ago.

Taft-Group Bitterness Seen as Something Fundamental, and Points Up Trend

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 15—The bitterness shown against Governor Dewey by the Taft group at Chicago is something by no means to be passed over as just an outburst of convention emotion. It is something fundamental and has much to do with the trend of American politics at this moment.

For Governor Dewey, who has earned the scorn of his opponents, has also won the plaudits of those who knew what he was fighting for. Efforts to make him appear to be a "boss" or a "master politician" do not do justice to the battle over fundamental principles which Dewey has just won.

The "Old Guard" Republicans didn't want Dewey in 1944 or 1948. He was too progressive for them. They didn't get a chance to berate him after President Roosevelt defeated him in 1944 because it was wartime and almost everybody conceded that America doesn't "change horses in midstream." But after the 1948 election the guns of the "Old Guard" were levelled at Dewey for having been a "me-too" candidate. They accused him of embracing so much of the New Deal doctrine that he had failed to make a clear-cut campaign. Actually he did not embrace New Dealism at all but frankly conceded that governmental intervention in the economic life of the country in emergencies was justified. He didn't say so, but he might have recalled that earlier this was good Republican doctrine for many years when industrialists customarily sought governmental intervention to protect them with tariffs and other legislation designed to "protect and preserve" American industry and its payrolls.

The New York governor was lambasted for failing to be a conservative and, when he lost the election, he was blamed that he didn't make a "fighting campaign." His stump speeches were certainly not as good as they might have been but, on the other hand, Dewey was not defeated by those Republicans who stayed at home on Election Day only because they were sore at their own candidate. This claim is illogical. He was beaten by Republicans as well as Democrats whose stomachs were full of food, whose pockets were bulging with inflation dollars and who didn't really care whether a Republican or a Democrat was in the White House. The discontent was not sufficient to oust the Democratic administration, and the election was about the closest in recent years, with Mr. Truman a much weaker candidate than his party. This was evidenced by the many states that gave overwhelming majorities to Democratic nominees for the Senate and the House as well as governors but gave far fewer votes to Mr. Truman.

Nobody, of course, can prove how an election is lost but it may be said that it was the Republican Party which lost in 1948, and not just its candidate, who in many states was stronger than his fellow Republican nominees. What defeated the Republican Party was the fact that, ever since 1912, it has failed to be progressive and liberal. It has not attracted new voters during a period when the New Deal and Fair Deal have been carrying on a powerful propaganda making the point—that they were aware of the needs of human beings in a troubled economic world whereas the Republicans were denouncing without offering any understandable alternatives.

Governor Dewey has been trying to convert the "old guard" to progressivism, and they pilloried him. His victory at Chicago in 1952 was the result of a long uphill fight begun in 1912 by Theodore Roosevelt, only to have the issue of progressivism straddled in 1917 by the Republicans and then turned aside in 1920 and 1924 under Harding and Coolidge. Herbert Hoover made something of an effort to get the party over toward the progressive side, but he was smothered by 1929's depression almost from the start of his term, and, as a consequence of the economic discontent, the New Deal came into power in 1933. The "old guard" Republicans failed to see the importance of the progressive issue in 1936, when they criticized Landon for tending in that direction, and in 1940, when they fought Willkie and blamed him afterwards for not being conservative enough to win an electorate that they imagined could be won to conservatism by mere exhortation.

The Republican Party is at last back on the progressive side where Theodore Roosevelt tried to lead it. Thomas Dewey of New York is now getting brickbats from the "old guard" for helping the young and alert Republican governors behind Eisenhower candidacy to give the Republican Party a fresh start.

It would be folly for the "old guard" to perpetuate the feud by trying to make Dewey the goat and blaming him for their own mistakes. For if they'll read their political history, they'll discover that the Republican Party under McKinley favored reciprocity in trade and international cooperation and that in domestic issues it has not always been conservative. It was the Republican Party that offered the constitutional amendment to prohibit child labor and passed a number of other constructive laws now taken for granted but which the Republicans sponsored and pushed through Congress.

The Democratic Party has had its progressive versus conservative cleavages, as, for instance, in the 1904 campaign and in 1924 when the two wings fought each other so bitterly. But under Roosevelt and Truman it has built up its progressive strength into a tremendous majority, which it will be a hard task for the Republicans to overcome this year even with the popular Eisenhower as their nominee.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, July 11—This is the first time in my long experience that a national convention actually caused a nausea in the souls of men and women, frightened by the dawning realization that the system by which presidents of this great republic are picked is not only a carnival of robots and fools, but a fraud. As I tried to suggest early in these obscenities, some, at least, of the Americans here concerned as delegates, reporters and mere spectators, were troubled by private pangs of thought for young men, some of them fathers of little children, caught by tricks of the draft and the reserve and set to Korea to fight a war, but forbidden to win it and almost totally forgotten by their countrymen.

General MacArthur referred to them in his speech, a rolling oration of rhythmic waves, one of the few public obeisances to decency and honor in the entire debauch. But Senator Wayne Morse, of Oregon, a non-Republican Republican, expressed revulsion at this plea. And whoever else was quoted on the side of the Aldrich-Rockefeller-Ford wing of the party had only scorn for MacArthur's unprovoked intrusion of spiritual thoughts into a brawl so frankly sordid, so the bounder seemed to be in bad taste.

A large number of good young citizens had been picked by a rigged lottery, sent to war and abandoned by their countrymen who now washed their hands of the tragedy and gathered in a wicked row of senseless noise, ridiculous costumes and mass betrayal to ratify a dirty business. To be sure, these delegates and alternates had no volition in the matter and the fault was not theirs but an ugly development ripening into danger after many years. But no individual arose who had the force of character, a heartful of pity for those poor fellows and the scorn of all this mockery to seize a microphone or set up a soapbox and cry shame at the gibbering multitude.

I have heard some few with previous experience of nominating conventions remark that this was the most humiliating of all. But, in my view, it was no worse than most others in the outwards. It was the worse, however, because the poor, trashy puppets, traded about as though they were swine in the stockyard pens hard by, did not include even one man or woman, however clumsy, with the courage to start a rebellion.

An inspired outcry might have begun a crusade.

Thursday night, as silly, listless nobodies traipsed in the aisles making the "demonstration" for Senator Taft, I came upon a fatuous young man, just the right size and age for service in Korea, waiting in an alley beneath the stands and behind the scenes, with a big sign "Arizona for Ike!" there were a hundred others more or less like him, standing by for their cue to kick up a spontaneous popular demand for Eisenhower. They had signs bearing the names of all the states.

"Have you seen Maggy Rockwell?" I asked Mrs. Rockwell is the national committeewoman from Arizona.

"Nope, I haven't saw her all evening," he said.

"Is Barry Goldwater around?"

DISTINGUISHED ANCESTORS

A Washington wants to go to Washington. State Senator Nat Washington of Ephrata, Pa., is running for the Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large in the September 9 primaries. He is a descendant of John Augustine Washington, George's younger brother.

The Father of His Country had no immediate children and Washingtons have been few in public life. His nephew Bushrod was appointed by President John Adams as associate justice of the Supreme Court in 1798, serving till his death in 1829. He lies buried at Mt. Vernon.

Lincoln had one noted son, Robert T. Lincolmn, who was minister to Great Britain under Garfield and Arthur, and secretary of war under Benjamin Harrison. He was also president of the Pullman Co. He died in 1926.

Some people who try to trace their ancestry back to distinguished forebears would give anything to be able to show a line going back to Washington or Lincoln. Others minimize the deeds of their ancestors and dig in to accomplish aims of their own.

PEACE THROUGH WEAPONS

An exhibition of historic weapons was held recently at the famous Tower of London. Among the weapons displayed there was the original flintlock rifle, great-grandfather of present day rifles. When the flintlock rifle was developed it was considered as frightening a weapon as the atomic bomb is considered today.

The designer of the weapon, Bidet Levondini, believed that his rifle might be a disguised blessing for mankind. The flintlock was so horrible a weapon, according to its inventor, that it made all future wars unthinkable.

How familiar the words sound! After the atomic bomb was dropped optimists predicted that the nature of this new and terrible instrument of destruction precluded any possibility of future wars. Today the world stands on the brink of the most terrible war in its history.

The answer to men's problems of peaceful relations lies not in weapons. At the moment it is necessary for America to be strong. But real peace can only come when force and military threats are replaced by understanding.

Herbert Hoover's idea, set forth again in his speech to the GOP convention, that America's contribution to West European defense should be limited mainly to air power is still opposed by the large majority of editors. A small minority argues that whatever ground forces are necessary in any plan of European defense should be contributed by the European nations. But the majority view is that only continued American contribution of ground forces will encourage West Europe to create an army adequate to cooperate in NATO strategy with American air power.

Washington (D. C.) Star (Ind.): "Hoover thinks the policies to which we are committed in Europe will impose on us an economic burden we cannot carry. He thinks we are paying a price we cannot afford for a measure of security which is at best of dubious value. We warns of 'phantom armies' and pleads for his own concept of cheaper security in the form of air power . . . It is enough to say that not one of our responsible military men, so far as we know, is in agreement with Hoover. It may be pointed out, however, that over all the long years of recurring crises, Hoover has tended to underestimate American capacities."

Chicago Tribune (Ind.): "Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, former war plans officer for Gen. MacArthur in the Pacific, asserts that it is absurd to think that 25 Atlantic Pact divisions, with another 25 supposed to spring to arms within 30 days, could stop a Russian force of 175 divisions, supported by 60 divisions from Communist satellites. The western force does not even exist at projected strength. It is supposed to exist by the end of the year. It is then supposed to be backed by 4,000 aircraft. Against this air force, said Gen. Fellers, the Russians can fill the sky with 20,000 Red air force planes."

Tampa, (Fla.) Tribune (Ind.-Dem.): "It is quite clear, as Hoover implied that there is no hope of matching the Russians bayonet for bayonet. But Western strategy is not based on any such program. What Eisenhower and other military leaders have worked for is the mobilization of enough of a collective force to hold up a Russian advance until such time as our bombers could blast the attackers and demolish communication and supply lines . . . Under no other assumption is there a possibility of successfully stimulating a will-to-fight in Western Europe."

Charlotte (N. C.) Observer (Ind.-Dem.): "It has not been a ground army that has kept Russia from attacking Western Europe so far, and it will not be a ground army that will hold her back in the future; but it has been the fear of atomic bombing of her cities, her industrial installations, and her sources of oil . . . .We do not believe Hoover intended to convey the impression that NATO or the European plan should be given up. . . . Let Europe furnish the ground troops, which we cannot spare. If they are willing to do that, we shall help. We shall supply the air force and much of the equipment for the ground army."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Dem.): "Though Hoover doubts the will of European countries to resist, it is a fact that their army divisions are on hand and that in the case of France and Britain they are actively fighting communism in other parts of the world. We cannot cut down the sending of men and money to Western Europe until it has made a Gibraltar of itself for the good reason that it is only this concrete aid that will help create the desired strength among our allies. . . . If our European friends believed America capable of embracing the 'fortress' policy at this late date, communism would have its greatest windfall."

That Body of Yours

DIABETES AND OVERWEIGHT

It is true that diabetes runs in families; we have all seen a thin member of a diabetic family acquire much excess weight to be followed by the development of diabetes. Fortunately, as Dr. E. P. Joslin, Boston, has so often pointed out, if members of a diabetic family do not allow themselves to become overweight, they can avoid this development of diabetes.

What about reducing their weight after diabetes has developed? In Stamford Medical Bulletin, San Francisco, Dr. G. B. Robson reports the case of a woman, aged 27, who had frequent urination and had been in a diabetic coma for 8 hours. After 8 hours she had received 575 units of insulin. Then, after about 15 hours, she improved rapidly and by the third day was back to normal mentally. She weighed 174 pounds. At first she was put on a diet of 2,550 calories (normal) later, one of 1,500 calories. In four months her weight was reduced to 154 pounds (20 pounds less) and her insulin dose was decreased until none was required.

Five years later, following regaining of the lost weight, she returned with the characteristic findings of diabetes. Dr. Robson states that his observations definitely prove that obese diabetics can achieve a normal condition, free from diabetes, with loss of weight.

At Dr. Robson's clinic it has become the practice never to give obese diabetics insulin unless complications make it advisable. He has seen patients requiring as much as 150 units of insulin daily who have lost all symptoms of diabetes merely by reducing their weight. In addition, it has been found that diabetics who remain overweight commonly have diabetic retinitis (cataracts), disturbances of the kidneys and other symptoms, whereas those who lost weight and cured their diabetes have remained free of these complications.

The above is just one more instance to encourage members of diabetic families not to allow themselves to become overweight. The fact that they are members of a diabetic family need cause them no worry as long as they do not allow themselves to become overweight.

A Welcome Summer Breeze

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Congress was in such a hurry to pack up and go to the conventions that legislation was ground out in wholesale lots without investigation or debate. Most senators and congressmen had no idea what they were voting on. As a result, several sleepers slipped through, as follows:

Tax Gravy—Senator George of Georgia introduced a complicated amendment to the excess-profits tax supposed to adjust the rates for fabricators of strategic metals. Significantly, however, the amendment was tailormade to reduce the taxes of one brass company of Bridgeport, Conn., whose owner happens to be Herman Steinkraus, outgoing president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. George has long been close to Ellsworth Alvord, tax adviser of the Chamber of Commerce.

Claims Gravy — Congressman Beall of Maryland tried to slip through a bill, authorizing the Willmore Engineering Company of Baltimore to collect a $244,000 claim. It so happens that the claim had already been turned down by the Court of Claims and the U. S. District Court. In fact, the claim was so fantastic that the courts ordered the FBI to investigate the Willmore Company for alleged fraud. Yet Congressman Beall tried to get Congress to pay the claim that the FBI is now investigating as fraudulent. Fortunately he failed.

Booby Trap

Airline Gravy—The big airlines almost booby trapped the small airlines with a bill that would have put them out of business. It would have allowed the Civil Aeronautics Board to slap $1,000 fines on the small, unscheduled lines for minor infractions of rules.

For five years, the C.A.B. has faithfully followed big airlines pressure in trying to squeeze small lines out of business. But the courts have consistently stuck up for the little airlines. The new bill would have circumvented the courts, and allowed the C.A.B. to fine the little lines.

The bill was drafted by Ed Sweeney, well known as the big airlines' friend on the Senate Aviation Subcommittee staff. In order to fool the senators, Sweeney prepared a report declaring that the comptroller-general and attorney general were in favor of the bill. This was not true. In the end, Senator Sparkman exposed the sleeper and blocked it on the Senate floor.

Tax Plums—Senator Martin of Pennsylvania pushed through a tax amandment made to order for two companies—the Budd Company of Philadelphia and the Sangawo Electric Company of Springfield, Illinois.

All these bills were introduced the last minute without a hearing —in the hope that they would be overlooked and enacted into law in the smoke and confusion of Congress' last days.

Pay-Toilets Lobby — One bill which didn't quite sneak through was the amendment to benefit the Pennsylvania Railroad and increase its pay-toilets charge from five to ten cents despite an OPS price ceiling. The man who pulled wires to pass this amendment was none other than President Truman's former counsel, Clark Clifford, and the senator who went to bat for the pay toilets was Allan Frear of Delaware. Though the railroad pushed through its pay-toilet hike, it also wanted exemption from the $285,000 triple damage suit brought against it by OPS for violating price ceilings on pay toilets. This suit was also introduced by "pay toilets" Frear, however, though Congress agreed to dime toilets it refused to knock out the law suit. Unlike the Pennsylvania the New York Central had increased pay toilets to ten cents in the Grand Central Station prior to the OPS ruling, but reduced the rate after the ruling was made.

G. I. Bonus

In contrast to the way private bills benefiting a few people were sneaked through Congress, here is the play-by-play story of a tough, 2-year-battle to secure a combat bonus for GI's in Korea.

Almost two years ago, September 1950, this columnist pointed to the unfairness of a service pay system which gave extra risk bonuses to pilots and submarine crews but none to the boys in the foxholes. Senator Tom Connally of Texas took up the cudgels by inserting the column in the Congressional Record, following which Senator Dick Russell of Georgia introduced a bill giving a $50-a-month combat bonus. Russell did his best to push the bill, but was finally defeated in his own Armed Services Committee.

At this point, three young senators took up the cudgels for the GI's—Moody of Michigan, Long of Louisiana, and Monroney of Oklahoma, all Democrats.

Since under Senate rules it is impossible for the chairman of a committee to appeal a bill to the full Senate if it has been defeated in his committee, Long, with Russell's blessing, made such an appeal. He brought the combat bonus bill out on the Senate floor, where it was defeated. Some of the same Senators who maneuvered backstage to slip private bills through Congress during the recent session voted against the GI's in Korea.

Moody Rider

However, Senator Moody, undiscouraged, adopted a new tack. In order to get a new vote he reduced the bonus from $50 to $45 a month, then demanded a roll call. This meant that every senator would have to stand up and be counted for or against the G.I.'s. Naturally, none wanted a roll-call vote, so the combat bonus was passed at $45 monthly.

However, in the House of Representatives the bill was killed. Republican economizers turned thumbs down. However, Senator Moody filed notice that when the military appropriations bill came up he would move to suspend the rules in order to attach a "foxhole rider" to the bill. This is a difficult thing to do, because the "foxhole rider," or combat bonus, meant completely new legislation and would require a two-thirds vote of approval if a single senator objected.

To make sure he got a two-thirds vote, Moody, with the support of Senator Styles Bridges, Republican, of New Hampshire, and his friends Long and Monroney, telephoned more than half the members of the Senate and got their approval.

Thus, the foxhole rider still had to pass the House, where Congressmen George Mahon of Texas and Dan Flood of Pennsylvania, members of the joint committee on military appropriations, went to bat. At first they failed. In the privacy of the committee, the vote went against them.

However, the friends of the G.I. did not stop.

They enlisted the help of Majority Leader John McCormack of Mass., Alfred Sieminski of New Jersey, a Korea veteran, Louis Rabaut and Thaddeus Machrowicz of Detroit, all Democrats; Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Mass., Republican. They threatened to carry the fight to the floor of the House, where every congressman would have to stand up and vote for or against the G. I.'s.

This threat, plus the astute leadership of Moody and the final support of Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, finally put the combat bonus bill through. It is now a matter of law, and the extra checks to G.I.'s in the foxholes should be in the mail fairly soon.

The City That Does Not Exist

A mirage appears in bright daylight near Mazara del Vallo, Sicily, on the Mediterranean opposite the shores of North Africa. Fantastic structures seem to emerge out of the water—towers, houses and terraces, white and pink with green stripes as if indicating gardens and parks. The vision is most startling, and is confirmed by historical and scientific references. A legend claims that a prehistoric city was submerged in the waves as punishment for its sins long ago.

Taft-Group Bitterness Seen as Something Fundamental, and Points Up Trend

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 15—The bitterness shown against Governor Dewey by the Taft group at Chicago is something by no means to be passed over as just an outburst of convention emotion. It is something fundamental and has much to do with the trend of American politics at this moment.

For Governor Dewey, who has earned the scorn of his opponents, has also won the plaudits of those who knew what he was fighting for. Efforts to make him appear to be a "boss" or a "master politician" do not do justice to the battle over fundamental principles which Dewey has just won.

The "Old Guard" Republicans didn't want Dewey in 1944 or 1948. He was too progressive for them. They didn't get a chance to berate him after President Roosevelt defeated him in 1944 because it was wartime and almost everybody conceded that America doesn't "change horses in midstream." But after the 1948 election the guns of the "Old Guard" were levelled at Dewey for having been a "me-too" candidate. They accused him of embracing so much of the New Deal doctrine that he had failed to make a clear-cut campaign. Actually he did not embrace New Dealism at all but frankly conceded that governmental intervention in the economic life of the country in emergencies was justified. He didn't say so, but he might have recalled that earlier this was good Republican doctrine for many years when industrialists customarily sought governmental intervention to protect them with tariffs and other legislation designed to "protect and preserve" American industry and its payrolls.

The New York governor was lambasted for failing to be a conservative and, when he lost the election, he was blamed that he didn't make a "fighting campaign." His stump speeches were certainly not as good as they might have been but, on the other hand, Dewey was not defeated by those Republicans who stayed at home on Election Day only because they were sore at their own candidate. This claim is illogical. He was beaten by Republicans as well as Democrats whose stomachs were full of food, whose pockets were bulging with inflation dollars and who didn't really care whether a Republican or a Democrat was in the White House. The discontent was not sufficient to oust the Democratic administration, and the election was about the closest in recent years, with Mr. Truman a much weaker candidate than his party. This was evidenced by the many states that gave overwhelming majorities to Democratic nominees for the Senate and the House as well as governors but gave far fewer votes to Mr. Truman.

Nobody, of course, can prove how an election is lost but it may be said that it was the Republican Party which lost in 1948, and not just its candidate, who in many states was stronger than his fellow Republican nominees. What defeated the Republican Party was the fact that, ever since 1912, it has failed to be progressive and liberal. It has not attracted new voters during a period when the New Deal and Fair Deal have been carrying on a powerful propaganda making the point—that they were aware of the needs of human beings in a troubled economic world whereas the Republicans were denouncing without offering any understandable alternatives.

Governor Dewey has been trying to convert the "old guard" to progressivism, and they pilloried him. His victory at Chicago in 1952 was the result of a long uphill fight begun in 1912 by Theodore Roosevelt, only to have the issue of progressivism straddled in 1917 by the Republicans and then turned aside in 1920 and 1924 under Harding and Coolidge. Herbert Hoover made something of an effort to get the party over toward the progressive side, but he was smothered by 1929's depression almost from the start of his term, and, as a consequence of the economic discontent, the New Deal came into power in 1933. The "old guard" Republicans failed to see the importance of the progressive issue in 1936, when they criticized Landon for tending in that direction, and in 1940, when they fought Willkie and blamed him afterwards for not being conservative enough to win an electorate that they imagined could be won to conservatism by mere exhortation.

The Republican Party is at last back on the progressive side where Theodore Roosevelt tried to lead it. Thomas Dewey of New York is now getting brickbats from the "old guard" for helping the young and alert Republican governors behind Eisenhower candidacy to give the Republican Party a fresh start.

It would be folly for the "old guard" to perpetuate the feud by trying to make Dewey the goat and blaming him for their own mistakes. For if they'll read their political history, they'll discover that the Republican Party under McKinley favored reciprocity in trade and international cooperation and that in domestic issues it has not always been conservative. It was the Republican Party that offered the constitutional amendment to prohibit child labor and passed a number of other constructive laws now taken for granted but which the Republicans sponsored and pushed through Congress.

The Democratic Party has had its progressive versus conservative cleavages, as, for instance, in the 1904 campaign and in 1924 when the two wings fought each other so bitterly. But under Roosevelt and Truman it has built up its progressive strength into a tremendous majority, which it will be a hard task for the Republicans to overcome this year even with the popular Eisenhower as their nominee.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, July 11—This is the first time in my long experience that a national convention actually caused a nausea in the souls of men and women, frightened by the dawning realization that the system by which presidents of this great republic are picked is not only a carnival of robots and fools, but a fraud. As I tried to suggest early in these obscenities, some, at least, of the Americans here concerned as delegates, reporters and mere spectators, were troubled by private pangs of thought for young men, some of them fathers of little children, caught by tricks of the draft and the reserve and set to Korea to fight a war, but forbidden to win it and almost totally forgotten by their countrymen.

General MacArthur referred to them in his speech, a rolling oration of rhythmic waves, one of the few public obeisances to decency and honor in the entire debauch. But Senator Wayne Morse, of Oregon, a non-Republican Republican, expressed revulsion at this plea. And whoever else was quoted on the side of the Aldrich-Rockefeller-Ford wing of the party had only scorn for MacArthur's unprovoked intrusion of spiritual thoughts into a brawl so frankly sordid, so the bounder seemed to be in bad taste.

A large number of good young citizens had been picked by a rigged lottery, sent to war and abandoned by their countrymen who now washed their hands of the tragedy and gathered in a wicked row of senseless noise, ridiculous costumes and mass betrayal to ratify a dirty business. To be sure, these delegates and alternates had no volition in the matter and the fault was not theirs but an ugly development ripening into danger after many years. But no individual arose who had the force of character, a heartful of pity for those poor fellows and the scorn of all this mockery to seize a microphone or set up a soapbox and cry shame at the gibbering multitude.

I have heard some few with previous experience of nominating conventions remark that this was the most humiliating of all. But, in my view, it was no worse than most others in the outwards. It was the worse, however, because the poor, trashy puppets, traded about as though they were swine in the stockyard pens hard by, did not include even one man or woman, however clumsy, with the courage to start a rebellion.

An inspired outcry might have begun a crusade.

Thursday night, as silly, listless nobodies traipsed in the aisles making the "demonstration" for Senator Taft, I came upon a fatuous young man, just the right size and age for service in Korea, waiting in an alley beneath the stands and behind the scenes, with a big sign "Arizona for Ike!" there were a hundred others more or less like him, standing by for their cue to kick up a spontaneous popular demand for Eisenhower. They had signs bearing the names of all the states.

"Have you seen Maggy Rockwell?" I asked Mrs. Rockwell is the national committeewoman from Arizona.

"Nope, I haven't saw her all evening," he said.

"Is Barry Goldwater around?"

300th Pageant Is Making Progress

The first five episodes of the 300th anniversary pageant are ready for the final dress rehearsal. This report was issued today after nearly 150 persons participated in the rehearsal Monday night, held by Irving Rose, production manager.

Tonight the remaining episodes will be rehearsed and additional personnel is needed for some of the scenes. The results Monday night were encouraging, Rose said today. "If we have as many volunteers tonight the success of our pageant is assured," he continued.

Rose said that several parts of the pageant will be rehearsed Wednesday and Thursday nights, but those groups have been notified. All other persons, in episodes six to 15 inclusive, should be at the rehearsal tonight. "The effectiveness of some of the scenes will depend on the number of participants on the stage, therefore additional volunteers can be used to advantage," Rose concluded.

The Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen's husband, and her sister Princess Margaret, wearing a fawn ensemble, were among the royal family at the ceremony in fashionable St. Margaret's. Both Lascelles, 28, and his 33-year-old bride are jitterbugs.

During the time the body reposed in the funeral home, hundreds of family acquaintances called to offer their condolence to the bereaved survivors. Father Geis visited the home and recited the prayers for the dead. Sunday night the Rev. William M. Raftery called and assisted by those present recited the Rosary. The casket was banked on all sides with beautiful floral contributions and on the Mass card receiver were dozens of spiritual bouquets, silent tokens of the esteem in which the deceased was held. Bearers were Joseph W. Meyers, Frank J. Nardi, John K. Emmett, George Planthaber, Raymond Avery and Clayton A. Stalter. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery where Father Raftery gave the final absolution and blessing at the grave.

Collision Is Reported

Gale, who reported he received a slight contusion on the back of his head, told Cpl. Dunn he stopped when the car ahead stopped to avoid striking an automobile that had pulled out of a line of traffic bound in the opposite direction.

Slain on Campus

Eileen Fahey (above) of New York city was shot to death on the Columbia University campus where she was employed. Police said the slayer fled the scene after telling a passerby "I just killed a girl."

Mother Asks Son's Return From War For Girl's Burial

New York, July 15 (AP)—A U. S. Marine's mother is asking for his return from Korea to attend the funeral of his slain fiancee, mysteriously shot in a Columbia University office.

An unidentified gunman killed pretty 20-year-old Eileen Fahey yesterday as she sat at her desk reading a letter from the marine, Pfc. Ronald Leo, also 20. The other letters from Leo, both unopened, lay on the desk.

Police pressed the search for both the gunman and a motive in the baffling case in which the slayer announced his deed to several persons. A professor saw him, but was afraid to stop him.

Leo's mother, Mrs. Margaret Leo, sent a telegram last night to Gen. Lemuel S. Shepherd, Jr., head of the marines, in Washington. She asked that her son be granted emergency furlough for his fiancee's funeral, scheduled Friday.

Deputy Chief Police Inspector James B. Leggett, working with 35 detectives, discounted the possibility that the slaying was the result of a love triangle.

Police Have No Motive

Friends and relatives, among 75 persons questioned last night, all told the same story: that Ronnie is the only boy she ever went out with," that she was devoted to her family, that she was a faithful Roman Catholic church-goer.

"All we have at present is that somebody shot and killed her," Leggett said. "We have no motive."

Miss Fahey was the second in her family to die violently. Her brother, Frank, then 18, was shot to death five years ago in a teenage street fight. Alonzo Ramirez, 23, was questioned yesterday by police and released. He is now on parole after serving three years in a reformatory for manslaughter.

Miss Fahey was shot in the morning as Columbia summer school students were starting on their way to classes. The shooting occurred in a ninth floor office used by the American Physical Society, for which Miss Fahey worked as secretary.

The gunman — described as a young, thin, dark six-footer— walked out of the office with the gun in his hand, told three women in the hallway he "just shot a girl," and disappeared down a stairway.

Breaks Into Tears

With the First Marine Division, Korea, July 15 (AP)—Pfc. Ronald Leo broke into tears today when he learned that his fiancee was shot to death on the Columbia University campus in New York city.

The tall, slender marine said he could not think of anyone who would have wanted to kill his fiancee, Eileen Fahey.

"Everybody liked her," he said. "I don't know of anyone who would want to do a thing like that."

Leo said he and Miss Fahey met four years ago and had planned to be married when he returned home.

Chicago, July 15 (AP)—Gael Sullivan, campaign manager for Sen. Estes Kefauver, asserted today that backers of other Democratic candidates are "ganging up" to stop Kefauver from winning the party's nomination for president.

Sullivan told a news conference his accusation was based on "reports."

He read a long statement which said:

"In Chicago next week we want to be free of those fixers and masters of the double cross. To them, a sellout of the people is never important. If there are any deals to be made, if the price is right, they want to make them behind closed doors. They cannot do it out in the open before the eyes of the nation."

300th Pageant Is Making Progress

The first five episodes of the 300th anniversary pageant are ready for the final dress rehearsal. This report was issued today after nearly 150 persons participated in the rehearsal Monday night, held by Irving Rose, production manager.

Tonight the remaining episodes will be rehearsed and additional personnel is needed for some of the scenes. The results Monday night were encouraging, Rose said today. "If we have as many volunteers tonight the success of our pageant is assured," he continued.

Rose said that several parts of the pageant will be rehearsed Wednesday and Thursday nights, but those groups have been notified. All other persons, in episodes six to 15 inclusive, should be at the rehearsal tonight. "The effectiveness of some of the scenes will depend on the number of participants on the stage, therefore additional volunteers can be used to advantage," Rose concluded.

Lascelles Is Wed

London, July 15 (AP) — Gerald Lascelles, cousin of the Queen and 13th in line for the British throne, today married a former showgirl, Angela Dowding. The romance blossomed in jazz clubs. Queen Elizabeth had been listed among the guests but Buckingham Palace at the last minute announced a "slight chill" kept her from attending. The Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen's husband, and her sister Princess Margaret, wearing a fawn ensemble, were among the royal family at the ceremony in fashionable St. Margaret's. Both Lascelles, 28, and his 33-year-old bride are jitterbugs.

Only Half Is Asked

Block Island, R. I., July 15 (AP)—The Block Island volunteer fire department today opened its second annual request for donations with an urgent appeal. Please give only one-half of what you donated last year, it asked. The 1951 drive brought in more money than the company needed, said Chief J. C. Dodge. The department was able to use the extra money to buy a second-hand ambulance.

Pretty wife in Italy had an unpleasant experience. Her no smoking husband came home unexpectedly and wondered about the smell of stale cigar smoke in the house. She told him she had developed a taste for cigar smoking. It all came out when she went to the hospital "awfully sick." Hubbie had insisted that she show him how she enjoyed smoking a cigar.

Helen—Say, have you seen Ray lately? I've been looking high and low for him the last two weeks.

Jimmy—I wonder if George Washington was as honest as they say?

Mother—I tell you, George Washington was the most honest man ever born.

Jimmy—Then, Mother, why do they close the banks on his birthday?

The noon whistle had blown, when Murphy shouted:

Murphy—Has anyone seen me vest?

Pat—Shure, Murphy, and ye've got it on.

Murphy—Right and I have, (Solemnly gazing at the garment) and it's a good thing ye seen it, or I'd have gone home without it.

The navy cook had just whipped up a tremendous platter of scrambled eggs for a mob of hungry sailors. Wearied by the chore, he sat down and started a letter to his girl friend.

"Darling," he began, "for the last hour shells have been bursting all around me."

Easy Living for Kids

If your living room must do double duty as children's play and study area, there'll be no need to scold when paints, ink or foods spill, if you use carefree rubber flooring. A damp mop will whisk away ordinary soil. Extra stubborn stains such as nail polish or iodine should be rubbed lightly with fine steel wool. A light rewaxing with a special water emulsion floor wax keeps the original gloss of the rubber flooring.

No Malt in 'Malted Milk'

New York (AP)—Two Brooklyn brothers who operate a luncheonette, were held for Special Sessions Court when they failed to explain satisfactorily why they sold maltless "malted milk" through drink dispensers. The arrest was made by a Department of Markets inspector who said she purchased a "malted" without malt and then found there was no malt in the luncheonette. The magistrate urged a city-wide drive against inadequately serviced automatic drink dispensers which, he said, do harm to children by depriving them of nourishment.

Tribune Editorial On Art Exhibit

Under the caption, Kingston's Art Exhibition, the New York Herald Tribune comments editorially on the local exhibition, which opens Wednesday evening at the George Washington School and continues through August 17.

Following is the editorial:

On a day of rain-drenched tulips, the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Kingston, N. Y., was opened this spring by Queen Juliana of the Netherlands. The upstate town whose old stone houses were a foothold of the Dutch and are landmarks of the Revolution is continuing through summer months various celebrious events. One of the important and appropriate of these is the city's art exhibition which opens July 16 and will last through August 17. It will be made up entirely of American paintings of the last three centuries borrowed from both public and private collections. The Albany Institute of History and Art is lending a group of pictures by artists who lived and painted in New York state, and from Boston the big Karolik collection is sending a variety of primitive portraits and landscapes which are nation wide in their representation of the diversity of American art.

Kingston's exhibition, we believe, will be of particular value in bringing together many pictures by men who made the Hudson River School famous. Thomas Cole looked out from a Catskill studio and painted landscapes which have endured like near-by mountains, one of which today bears his name. And the work of Doughty and Inness, Quidor and Kensett and others of the school will be exhibited at a time when the Hudson River Valley itself is prejudiced in favor of color and beauty.

In a comparatively young America it is still a long way from the brush strokes of a Copley and a Stuart to those of Grandma Moses. Kingston, we think, is to be congratulated in presenting during the city's tercentenary an exhibition charting the course of American art and its development through the years while a population was growing from the banks of Henry Hudson's river to the wilder streams of Oregon. And it is worth remembering, we believe, that if art students and casual visitors to Kingston's show want to see for themselves the peaks Thomas Cole knew and loved, these will be on exhibit, too, along a summer skyline unchanged since the Dutch settled under its shadow in 1652.

"Here's an unusual proof of the fact that it doesn't always pay to return your partner's lead," writes C. M. Smith of Madison, Wisc. "In the accompanying hand, South had no chance for his contract until East came to his assistance.

"West led the king of hearts, and South nearly conceded a heart and two spades to save time. But there was just a chance for the contract if he got a little help, so he decided to play the hand out.

"South refused the first trick but won the second with the ace of hearts. He then ducked a spade around to East.

"What should East return at this moment? Since he was a dutiful lead returner, he led a third round of hearts. He could have played any other card from his hand and would have defeated the contract, but the heart return allowed South to make it.

"South ruffed the heart and ran all of his trumps and the top clubs. When he led the last club dummy had two spades and a heart, and so did West—but West had to discard before the dummy. If West discarded a heart, dummy's six would be good, declarer would make two spade tricks.

"If East had kept the ten of hearts in his hand this squeeze would have died aborning. West could keep spades, and East would hold the ten of hearts, and South would have nothing but regrets."

I agree entirely with Mr. Smith's comments on the play of the hand. East didn't think, and South did. This made a difference of 700 points.

I should point out, however, that South did his thinking only after he had landed himself in a bad contract. Slam was pretty remote when North responded with only two no-trump, so South should have gone for the sure game in no-trump rather than the very doubtful game in diamonds.

At a contract of three no-trump there are 10 easy tricks no matter how hard the defenders think.

SHALL SHE WRITE TO HIM?

A girl writes: "A young man I know will be leaving soon to go to Alaska to work for a year. I would like to know if it would be proper to write to him first after he leaves, or if I must wait until I hear from him before I can write."

If he is a really old friend, it would be quite all right for you to write him news from home. If he is someone you know very slightly, it is better to wait to reply to whatever he sends you. (A letter for a letter; a picture postcard for a picture post-card.)

Wedding Present Questions

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the proper time to send a wedding present, and also to whom is it sent when the bride is a stranger?

Answer: A gift is sent as soon as an invitation to the wedding is received. Usually it is sent to the bride—even though you know only the groom.

Invitation Must Be Lost

Dear Mrs. Post: My seventeen-year-old daughter is going to be a bridesmaid in a wedding next week and I am very much put out because I was not invited to either the wedding or reception. I went to a good deal of expense to provide her clothes and I think the very least the bride could have done was to send me an invitation to the church so that I could see my daughter walk in the procession. Would it be permissible for me to go to the church anyway, even though I did not receive an invitation?

Answer: It must be an oversight that you have not been invited, and your daughter could very well tell the bride that you have not received your invitation. But, in any case, you can certainly go to the church.

How Else?

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct way to eat watermelon at table?

Answer: Eat it with a fork.

Georges Barrere Bust Given to Chautauqua

A presentation of a bronze portrait bust of the late Georges Barrere, regarded as one of the greatest flutists in musical history, was presented to the Chautauqua Institution Monday afternoon by an anonymous friend of the musician. Mr. Barrere, for many years a summer resident of Woodstock, was frequently heard in the Maverick concerts.

The bust was created by Marion Sanford of New York, a Guggenheim fellowship winner from 1941 to 1948 and recipient of the 1947 National Academy Sculpture Award.

Miss Sanford during her youth was a great admirer of the French flutist from the audience when he played with the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Barrere, who played on a specially constructed platinum instrument, was assistant conductor of the orchestra and also played the first flute desk, and as soloist.

He was brought to New York by Walter Damrosch in 1905 as soloist with the New York Symphony and was first desk flutist there until the orchestra was merged with the Philharmonic in 1929. Then, he founded and directed the Little Symphony to which he devoted all his time, and to chamber music appearances.

War Bride Welcome

Alhambra, Calif., (AP)—Nobuko Coronel, the Okinawan war bride of Cpl. Robert Coronel, can cross the Pacific and take up residence here without misgiving. The Coronels were married in February, 1951, and now have a baby girl. Before embarking, Nobuko received a letter from a relative in the United States. It told her she would not be accepted because of her Okinawan nationality. Alhambrans saw the story in their local newspaper. They then wrote more than 60 letters of welcome to Nobuko. One letter was from a Japanese war bride assuring the little Okinawan that she had nothing to fear.

Reds Screen Teachers

Honk Kong (AP)—Reports from Red China say the Communists are stepping up their campaign to get complete control over teachers in South China. Communist bosses in Canton will give tests to 1,000 teachers to check "on their political ideas." Such a campaign already is well under way in North China.

present time touring seven museums in the East.

Born in Russia, Karolik came to this country 28 years ago. He was a member of one of those Russian families whose long tradition of culture made it impossible for them to live under Communist domination. In the time between 1918, when he migrated from Russia, until his coming to this country, he lived in Italy and Great Britain.

Kingston Charms

Commenting to anniversary committee officials on his impressions here, Karolik stated, "I am utterly charmed with your historic and beautiful city of Kingston. It reminds me so much of my own hometown of Newport, R. I. Both cities were the most important pre-Revolutionary cities of their state. Both were also the cultural centers of their state—and both have just re-awakened to the tremendous cultural heritage they posses. I believe in both cases that these two art centers, one in New York state and the other in Rhode Island, will reassert their leadership and that the country will hear much from them in years to come."

Four Generations

Robert C. Vose, whose family brought to America the first works of Corot and Blakeley, has behind him the solid knowledge of four generations spent in acquiring and exhibiting artistic masterpieces. The Vose Galleries have displayed everything from Italian and Dutch masters to the more restrained of the moderns. He was commissioned by Massachusetts state government to collect and exhibit for the tercentenary of that state in 1920.

Important Awards

In addition to hearing talks by these two men, visitors at the preview showing Wednesday night will have a chance of obtaining a choice of one of two oil paintings and two water colors offered by the committee. The paintings are now on exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce window.

Interest in the local art show was heightened when residents noted that the New York Herald Tribune in its Monday edition contained an editorial on Kingston's art show.

A slighter higher admission will be charged for the opening night.

KAA Yankees Blast Dodgers, 15-7 Steltz Pounds Grand Slam Homer

Game Launches Second Half

The Yankees have served notice on the rest of the league that they are the team to beat in the second half of the KAA Little League pennant chase.

Treating the newly crowned first half champions with considerable disrespect, the Yankees walloped the Dodgers, 15 to 7, in Monday's second half inaugural at the 156th FA diamond.

Big Dan Steltz doubled in brass for the Yankees with a grand slam homer and a four-hit pitching stint. His jackpot homer was the second of the season for the strapping right hander.

The Yankees finished two games behind the Dodgers in the spirited first half pennant race but proved that it would be different this time by assaulting George Uhl for seven runs in the second. Then, when the Dodgers got pestiferous with four runs in the fifth to move to within 8-6 they exploded for the coup de grace of seven more runs in the sixth.

Uhl went all the way for the Dodgers and was nicked for nine hits, while walking nine and striking out five. Steltz yielded four hits, including a double and homer by Bob Pratt, who has done some nice hitting of late, but he was in constant turmoil with a dozen walks.

Steltz matched Pratt's performance with a double and four-run homer. Gene Nagele pounded a pair of two baggers for the winners, while Gerry McDonough and Paul Klonowski each had two singles.

The Red Sox and Yankees are scheduled in today's game.

City League Cards Finals in First Half

Three Games This Week Will Decide Winner

The City Baseball League swings into the final phase of the prolonged first half today, with strong prospects that at least two teams will be tied for the lead when Sunday's action between Chez Emile and Colonial Merchants terminates.

Boulevard Gulf and Chez Emile are carded at 6:15 p. m. today, but Wednesday's clash between Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors is fraught with more intriguing.

Five wins will be the lucky combination in this most unusual league race. No team can possibly win any more than that. In order to achieve the magic five, the Chez Emile squad, 1951 champions, must beat Boulevard Gulf today and Colonial Merchants on Sunday.

Chezzies on Spot

The book says Chez Emile should do the trick but the 1952 campaign has been unpredictable. Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors have only to beat each other, however, to get nothing worse than a tie. This game on Wednesday stands out as the top attraction of the season. You can expect the Dairymen to wheel out their perennial clutch hurler, Tommy Fisher, to go against either Jim Dagostino or Ernie McCormick.

Colonial Merchants and Boulevard Gulf already eliminated with four losses apiece, will have plenty to say about Chez Emile's chances. Each gets a crack at the defending champions and you can expect the Merchants to be geared for a prime upset next Sunday.

In the event of any postponements this week, the schedule will have to carry over until next week. This prospect is not relished by league officials and managers who have sweated through a series of postponements in the first round which has consumed almost two months.

Goodman Heads for 2nd Batting Crown; Bob Addis Surprise Leader in National

New York, July 15 (AP)—Billy Goodman of the Boston Red Sox seems deadly serious about recapturing the American League batting championship he relinquished last year to the Philadelphia Athletics' Ferris Fain.

Goodman, the 1950 kingpin, went on a hitting spree last week that netted him 11 safeties in 25 times at bat for a .346 average. His week's stickwork was worth 11 additional points on his average, and perhaps more important, a 22-point advantage over Fain, last week's leader.

Fain went to the plate 22 times and collected only five hits and his average dipped 11 points to .324, still good enough for a second place tie with Gene Woodling of New York. Figuers include yesterday's games.

Musial Replaced

In the National League, Bob Addis, Chicago Cub outfielder, only of late a regular in the lineup, surprised by taking over the lead from the perennial pace-setter, Stan Musial of St. Louis. Addis has 56 hits in 167 appearances for a .335 figure, six points above Musial, who dropped four points over the week to .329.

Aside from Goodman, Woodling showed the biggest gain in the American. He went eight for 20, good for 10 more points that brought him from the seventh spot in the batting derby.

Thanks to a 15-point nosedive by Cleveland's Al Rosen, in third place last week, and a six-point loss by Boston's George Kell, No. 4 a week ago, Mickey Mantle of New York moved from fifth to fourth, although dropping two points to .316

Rosen Fifth

Rosen is fifth with .315 and Kell seventh with .312. In between them comes Dom DiMaggio, of Boston whose .313 remained static while he was rising from eighth to sixth.

Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodger second baseman, kept the third spot in the National with .319, a four-point gain, but only because rookie catcher Toby Atwell of the Chicago Cubs went two for 14 and lost 13 points while falling from second to fourth, .324 to .311.

New York's Whitey Lockman and St. Louis' Enos Slaughter are tied for fifth at .310. Lockman dropped three points while moving up from sixth, while Slaughter lost four points in slipping from fourth.

Peanuts Lowrey (.307), St. Louis, is seventh; Pee Wee Reese (.306), Brooklyn, eighth, and Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, and Billy Cox, Brooklyn, (both .302) are tied for tenth.

ABC Set New Records

Milwaukee (AP) — The record-breaking 85-day 49th American Bowling Congress tournament here established a new attendance mark of 147,504 paid admissions. The tourney which ended on June 14 twice drew single night crowds of over 5,000. On many other occasions there were crowds of over 4,000. The record crowd was 5,257.

Six for Six

Cincinnati (NEA)—Over the years, the Cincinnati Reds have had three men who have batted safely in six consecutive times at bat: Tony Cuccinello (1931), Ernie Lombardi (1937) and Walker Cooper (1949).

Albany Elks Edge Lanesville, 3-2

Bob Paterson, a former Canadian-American League hurled with Quebec, pitched the Albany Elks to a 3-2 victory over the Lanesville A.C. Sunday on the Ulster diamond.

The home forces averted a shutout in the ninth when Cal Smith singled home two runs. Paterson yielded a first inning single to Bush and not another ball was hit to the outfield until Smith's ninth inning shot to right center.

Paterson walked three and struck out five but had to be that good in order to stave off Bud Smith, who allowed only six hits and fanned seven.

Lee walked to open the Lanesville ninth and Fitchner was safe on an overthrow by the Elks third baseman, the runners moving to second and third. Paterson made Bush tap to the box and held the runners but Cal Smith lined a fast ball to right center for the two tallies. Smith advanced to second on the throwin to the plate but couldn't budge as Herdman flied out and Bud Smith grounded to second to end the game.

An error figured in the first two Albany markers in the second. Smith pitched shutout ball after giving up a single marker in the third. The eight hits in the game went to eight different players.

Reynolds Leads With ERA of 1.46

New York, July 15 (AP)—Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees is the American League's earned run leader today although he holds only a slight edge over Philadelphia's Bobby Shantz and Mike Garcia, Cleveland's hard-working righthander.

Earned run averages compiled by the Associated Press through games of last Sunday disclose that Reynolds has allowed only 22 earned runs in 136 innings for a 1.46 average. Allie has an 11-4 record.

Shantz, the A's brilliant southpaw, is close behind the Yankee ace with 1.65, followed by Garcia at 1.67. Bobby, a 15-game winner, has permitted 29 earned runs in 158 innings while Garcia, with 13 victories and six setbacks, has given up 30 earned tallies in 162 frames.

In the National League, lefthander Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies, making a strong comeback after nearly two years in the army, boasts the lowest earned run average, 2.03. Robin Roberts, another of Steve O'Neil's hurlers, is next in line with 2.24. Simmons, has allowed 21 earned runs in 93 innings and Roberts 42 in 169.

Behind Simmons and Roberts in the National League comes Ken Raffensberger with a 2.36 ERA. The veteran Cincinnati lefty, in toiling 137 innings, has given up 36 earned runs.

Ex-Champ Wins Women's Medal

Binghamton, July 15 (AP)—Defending champion Barbara Bruning and five-time champion Ruth Torgerson led a field of 32 qualifiers into the first round of match play today in the New York State Women's Amateur golf tournament.

A recent arm injury was bothering Miss Bruning, the long-hitting Armonk star who won her first state crown last year. An automatic qualifier, she was four over par yesterday when she picked up on the 15th green.

Mrs. Torgerson closed with two birdies for medalist honors. The Garden City veteran carded a 77, one over par and low by a stroke over Miss Shirley Smith of the host Binghamton Country Club.

It took 93 or better to qualify among the bulky field of 81. Mrs. Cash Garvey of Utica won the 32nd berth by defeating Mrs. Ann Levene of Binghamton in a playoff. Both had 94s.

Miss Smith was low for the first nine in the qualifying round. She went out in 37, but went four over par on the last five holes coming in.

Mrs. Florence Keating, wife of Charley Keating, Corning Country Club pro, turned in a 3-under-par 36 in the back nine after three successive sixes had marred her outgoing 43.

KAA Yankees Blast Dodgers, 15-7 Steltz Pounds Grand Slam Homer

Game Launches Second Half

The Yankees have served notice on the rest of the league that they are the team to beat in the second half of the KAA Little League pennant chase.

Treating the newly crowned first half champions with considerable disrespect, the Yankees walloped the Dodgers, 15 to 7, in Monday's second half inaugural at the 156th FA diamond.

Big Dan Steltz doubled in brass for the Yankees with a grand slam homer and a four-hit pitching stint. His jackpot homer was the second of the season for the strapping right hander.

The Yankees finished two games behind the Dodgers in the spirited first half pennant race but proved that it would be different this time by assaulting George Uhl for seven runs in the second. Then, when the Dodgers got pestiferous with four runs in the fifth to move to within 8-6 they exploded for the coup de grace of seven more runs in the sixth.

Uhl went all the way for the Dodgers and was nicked for nine hits, while walking nine and striking out five. Steltz yielded four hits, including a double and homer by Bob Pratt, who has done some nice hitting of late, but he was in constant turmoil with a dozen walks.

Steltz matched Pratt's performance with a double and four-run homer. Gene Nagele pounded a pair of two baggers for the winners, while Gerry McDonough and Paul Klonowski each had two singles.

The Red Sox and Yankees are scheduled in today's game.

Goodman Heads for 2nd Batting Crown; Bob Addis Surprise Leader in National

New York, July 15 (AP)—Billy Goodman of the Boston Red Sox seems deadly serious about recapturing the American League batting championship he relinquished last year to the Philadelphia Athletics' Ferris Fain.

Goodman, the 1950 kingpin, went on a hitting spree last week that netted him 11 safeties in 25 times at bat for a .346 average. His week's stickwork was worth 11 additional points on his average, and perhaps more important, a 22-point advantage over Fain, last week's leader.

Fain went to the plate 22 times and collected only five hits and his average dipped 11 points to .324, still good enough for a second place tie with Gene Woodling of New York. Figuers include yesterday's games.

Musial Replaced

In the National League, Bob Addis, Chicago Cub outfielder, only of late a regular in the lineup, surprised by taking over the lead from the perennial pace-setter, Stan Musial of St. Louis. Addis has 56 hits in 167 appearances for a .335 figure, six points above Musial, who dropped four points over the week to .329.

Aside from Goodman, Woodling showed the biggest gain in the American. He went eight for 20, good for 10 more points that brought him from the seventh spot in the batting derby.

Thanks to a 15-point nosedive by Cleveland's Al Rosen, in third place last week, and a six-point loss by Boston's George Kell, No. 4 a week ago, Mickey Mantle of New York moved from fifth to fourth, although dropping two points to .316

Rosen Fifth

Rosen is fifth with .315 and Kell seventh with .312. In between them comes Dom DiMaggio, of Boston whose .313 remained static while he was rising from eighth to sixth.

Jackie Jensen (.309), Washington, Dale Mitchell (.305), Cleveland, and Nellie Fox (.301) round out the top ten.

Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodger second baseman, kept the third spot in the National with .319, a four-point gain, but only because rookie catcher Toby Atwell of the Chicago Cubs went two for 14 and lost 13 points while falling from second to fourth, .324 to .311.

New York's Whitey Lockman and St. Louis' Enos Slaughter are tied for fifth at .310. Lockman dropped three points while moving up from sixth, while Slaughter lost four points in slipping from fourth.

Peanuts Lowrey (.307), St. Louis, is seventh; Pee Wee Reese (.306), Brooklyn, eighth, and Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati, and Billy Cox, Brooklyn, (both .302) are tied for tenth.

ABC Set New Records

Milwaukee (AP) — The record-breaking 85-day 49th American Bowling Congress tournament here established a new attendance mark of 147,504 paid admissions. The tourney which ended on June 14 twice drew single night crowds of over 5,000. On many other occasions there were crowds of over 4,000. The record crowd was 5,257.

Six for Six

Cincinnati (NEA)—Over the years, the Cincinnati Reds have had three men who have batted safely in six consecutive times at bat: Tony Cuccinello (1931), Ernie Lombardi (1937) and Walker Cooper (1949).

Albany Elks Edge Lanesville, 3-2

Bob Paterson, a former Canadian-American League hurled with Quebec, pitched the Albany Elks to a 3-2 victory over the Lanesville A.C. Sunday on the Ulster diamond.

The home forces averted a shutout in the ninth when Cal Smith singled home two runs. Paterson yielded a first inning single to Bush and not another ball was hit to the outfield until Smith's ninth inning shot to right center.

Paterson walked three and struck out five but had to be that good in order to stave off Bud Smith, who allowed only six hits and fanned seven.

Lee walked to open the Lanesville ninth and Fitchner was safe on an overthrow by the Elks third baseman, the runners moving to second and third. Paterson made Bush tap to the box and held the runners but Cal Smith lined a fast ball to right center for the two tallies. Smith advanced to second on the throwin to the plate but couldn't budge as Herdman flied out and Bud Smith grounded to second to end the game.

An error figured in the first two Albany markers in the second. Smith pitched shutout ball after giving up a single marker in the third. The eight hits in the game went to eight different players.

Reynolds Leads With ERA of 1.46

New York, July 15 (AP)—Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees is the American League's earned run leader today although he holds only a slight edge over Philadelphia's Bobby Shantz and Mike Garcia, Cleveland's hard-working righthander.

Earned run averages compiled by the Associated Press through games of last Sunday disclose that Reynolds has allowed only 22 earned runs in 136 innings for a 1.46 average. Allie has an 11-4 record.

Shantz, the A's brilliant southpaw, is close behind the Yankee ace with 1.65, followed by Garcia at 1.67. Bobby, a 15-game winner, has permitted 29 earned runs in 158 innings while Garcia, with 13 victories and six setbacks, has given up 30 earned tallies in 162 frames.

In the National League, lefthander Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies, making a strong comeback after nearly two years in the army, boasts the lowest earned run average, 2.03. Robin Roberts, another of Steve O'Neil's hurlers, is next in line with 2.24. Simmons, has allowed 21 earned runs in 93 innings and Roberts 42 in 169.

Behind Simmons and Roberts in the National League comes Ken Raffensberger with a 2.36 ERA. The veteran Cincinnati lefty, in toiling 137 innings, has given up 36 earned runs.

Ex-Champ Wins Women's Medal

Binghamton, July 15 (AP)—Defending champion Barbara Bruning and five-time champion Ruth Torgerson led a field of 32 qualifiers into the first round of match play today in the New York State Women's Amateur golf tournament.

A recent arm injury was bothering Miss Bruning, the long-hitting Armonk star who won her first state crown last year. An automatic qualifier, she was four over par yesterday when she picked up on the 15th green.

Mrs. Torgerson closed with two birdies for medalist honors. The Garden City veteran carded a 77, one over par and low by a stroke over Miss Shirley Smith of the host Binghamton Country Club.

It took 93 or better to qualify among the bulky field of 81. Mrs. Cash Garvey of Utica won the 32nd berth by defeating Mrs. Ann Levene of Binghamton in a playoff. Both had 94s.

Miss Smith was low for the first nine in the qualifying round. She went out in 37, but went four over par on the last five holes coming in.

Mrs. Florence Keating, wife of Charley Keating, Corning Country Club pro, turned in a 3-under-par 36 in the back nine after three successive sixes had marred her outgoing 43.

City League Cards Finals in First Half

Three Games This Week Will Decide Winner

The City Baseball League swings into the final phase of the prolonged first half today, with strong prospects that at least two teams will be tied for the lead when Sunday's action between Chez Emile and Colonial Merchants terminates.

Boulevard Gulf and Chez Emile are carded at 6:15 p. m. today, but Wednesday's clash between Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors is fraught with more intriguing.

Five wins will be the lucky combination in this most unusual league race. No team can possibly win any more than that. In order to achieve the magic five, the Chez Emile squad, 1951 champions, must beat Boulevard Gulf today and Colonial Merchants on Sunday.

Chezzies on Spot

The book says Chez Emile should do the trick but the 1952 campaign has been unpredictable.

Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors have only to beat each other, however, to get nothing worse than a tie. This game on Wednesday stands out as the top attraction of the season. You can expect the Dairymen to wheel out their perennial clutch hurler, Tommy Fisher, to go against either Jim Dagostino or Ernie McCormick.

Colonial Merchants and Boulevard Gulf already eliminated with four losses apiece, will have plenty to say about Chez Emile's chances. Each gets a crack at the defending champions and you can expect the Merchants to be geared for a prime upset next Sunday.

In the event of any postponements this week, the schedule will have to carry over until next week. This prospect is not relished by league officials and managers who have sweated through a series of postponements in the first round which has consumed almost two months.

Five Game Test Between Yanks and Tribe Could Settle American League Pennant

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland and New York, the two titans of the American League, clash head-on at Yankee Stadium tonight in the first vital five-game series with first place at stake.

The Indians, pre-season pennant favorites, can wrest the top rung from the Yankees, but they must win all five games. They trailed Casey Stengel's crew by 3½ games on the eve of the important series.

At the same time, Chicago's third-place White Sox and Boston's fourth-place Red Sox meet in the first of a three-game series at Fenway Park. All four contenders suffered surprising defeats by second division clubs yesterday.

The Yankees bowed to Detroit's tail-end Tigers, 8-2; Washington whipped the Indians, 15-4; the St. Louis Browns thrashed the Red Sox, 7-5, and the Philadelphia Athletics edged out the White Sox, 2-1 in 10 innings.

In the curtailed National League activity, Brooklyn maintained its 5½-game over New York with a 6-0 triumph in St. Louis after the Giants had vanquished the Reds, 6-2, in Cincinnati. Rain postponed the scheduled Philadelphia Phillies-Cubs game in Chicago. Boston and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Easter Returns

The Indians will be bolstered by the return of Luke Easter. The big Negro first baseman was recalled from Indianapolis yesterday and ordered to join the Indians in time for tonight's game.

The Indians could have used Easter's bat yesterday as they were held to eight hits in losing to Washington. The Nats clubbed starter Sam Jones and two relievers for 15 hits and were helped by five errors and nine walks.

Dave Madison hurled eight scoreless innings for the Browns but was batted out of the box in a hectic ninth when Boston got its five runs on homers by Dick Gernert and Dom DiMaggio. The Browns teed off on starter Ray Scarborough for five tallies in the first. Dick Kryhoski batted in two runs with three hits.

Billy Hoeft, rookie Tiger southpaw, spaced 10 Yankee hits effectively to record his first Major League win. He was supported by a nine-hit attack, five coming off the bat of first baseman Walter Dropo. Jim McDonald was the loser.

Dave Philley's fourth hit, a 10th-inning single off Harry Dorish, scored Eddie Joost to give the Athletics their 2-1 win over Chicago.

Carl Erskine turned back the fast-moving Cardinals with three hits as he recorded his third shutout and his tenth win for Brooklyn. The Dodgers snapped a scoreless duel in the fifth, clubbing starter Cloyd Boyer and Eddie Yuhas for five runs.

Bobby Thomson and Whitey Lockman cracked four hits apiece to help the Giants down the Reds as Jim Hearn picked up his 10th triumph, spacing 10 hits.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press

Batting: Dave Philley, Athletics—Cracked four hits in five times at bat, driving in both Philadelphia runs with a first-inning triple and a 10th-inning single. The last blow knocked in Eddie Joost with the run that gave the A's a 2-1 win over the Chicago White Sox.

Pitching: Carl Erskine, Dodgers—Hurled a three-hit shutout as the Dodgers whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-0.

Guard Spahn After Threat

Chicago, July 15 (AP)—Because of a threatening letter, star pitcher Warren Spahn of the Boston Braves will get police protection during a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs starting today.

Andrew Aitken, chief of detectives, said in assigning a detail to guard Spahn the letter obviously was inspired by the June 8 injury of Cub outfielder Frankie Baumholtz. One of Spahn's pitches struck and broke Baumholtz' right hand.

The unsigned letter, received in Pittsburgh by Spahn during a recent Braves' series there, contained a newspaper clipping of Baumholtz' injury. It read in part:

"x x x when you come back to Chicago, I'll see you and make good. I know what hotel you stay at, you ———. This is not a crank letter, but a sore head like you will get it from me. I'll get you somehow, you can be handled."

Aitken said a crank "obviously" sent the letter but added "we are taking no chances."

Plans Underway For Roads Race; Slated August 17

Area sports enthusiasts of Kingston and the Highmount Chamber of Commerce publicity departments are working on the promotion of a roads race for sports cars at the Highmount and Belleayre Mountain Ski Center August 17.

The races will be in the form of time trials, single starts, and will be held under the auspices of the Eastern United States Center of the MGM Club of America and the American Automobile Association.

Known as the Belleayre Mountain champinship, the races will be run over the route from the Highmount Country Club to the top of Belleayre Ski Center over a two mile side road and will not not interfere with traffic. The hill climb will be from an elevation of 1,900 to 2,500 feet.

Each car will get off to an individual start and the winner will be determined by the elapsed time for the run. Contestants will use mostly foreign made sports cars.

The MG Club of America and the AAA, which sanctions car racing in this country, have tentatively approved the August date. Herman T. Lukow, president of the Highmount Chamber of Commerce, who has been actively interested in securing this race for the Catskill mountain region, is general chairman of the races and has attended several hill climb races in this and other states and the interest shown caused him to seek a contest here. Lukow contacted clubs, committees and drivers in various automobile organizations, and received assurance of support for the Belleayre Mountain event.

85 Drivers Interested

To date, it is reported there have been 85 drivers who have indicated a desire to enter the Bellayre hill climb race and it is expected there will be additional entries.

The sport, which has become increasingly popular in this country, will provide another summer attraction in the Catskill mountains and will be an additional event to attract people to Kingston during the tercentenary celebration this summer.

On the day of the race Sheriff Cluett Schantz will have deputies patrol the route of the race and the Boy Scouts of the area will put on a mammoth parade. Any financial profit from the promotion will go to the benefit of the Boy Scouts.

Entries Close July 31

Official entry blanks are now available together with rules of the contest and may be obtained from Highmount, Chamber of Commerce. Entries will close July 31, at regular fees but will be accepted to August 7, at additional fee.

All cars entered will undergo a technical inspection the day before the races at the Charles Griffin Garage in Pine Hill. This inspection will be from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. August 16. Practice runs will also be permitted Saturday, August 16, from 2 p. m. until 4 p. m. The championship hill climb will take place from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Sunday, August 17. The course is approximately two miles in length. Awards will be made first and second place winners in each of the classes.

Grant Tolly, 2 Lantern Road, Levittown, L. I., will receive the applications. Tolly is co-chairman, of the event and is a member of the MG Car Club contest board. There will be 10 classes registered for the event, including women drivers.

First for Umpire

Chicago (AP) — Gordon Froese, newest member of the American League's umpiring staff, ejected his first player from a game only eight days after reporting as an arbiter. The guy who was at the wrong end of the thumb was Manager Paul Richards of the White Sox. It was Richards' sixth banishment of the season.

Popular Game Bird

Shelburne, Nova Scotia (AP)—The first large-scale attempt to establish the Chinese ring-necked pheasant in this area will be made next fall when sportsmen plan to release about 500. The pheasant chicks were bought from trappist monks at Oka, Quebec.

Largest YMCA Day Camp Enrollment, Schafer Announces

The largest fourth week enrollment in the 10-year history of the YMCA Pine Knoll Day Camp was announced today by Camp Director Lou Schafer.

The camp, located at DeWitt Lake, opened its fourth week today with over 150 boys and girls, Schafer said.

Two days of rain interfered with the camp program to some extent last week but Schafer and his 15 counselors had things "humming" just the same. Story hours, stunts and stories told by campers, featured the indoor program. Campers telling the best stories were awarded special prizes and refreshments.

A total of 28 boys and girls have been taught to swim during the first three weeks, all swimming 50 yards or more as required by the YMCA national swimming test for the Minnow Club. Many others are well started on beginner's technique and should make their 50-yard swim this week. Some of these boys and girls are five and six years old, Schafer said, pointing out that most of those passing the test to date have been seven, eight and nine years old.

Swimming championships for the mid-camp season will be held this week, and many are practicing their fancy diving. Names of winners in last week's mid-camp running and jumping events will be announced later.

New campers for this week are Robert and Frank Lawatsch, Wayne Smith, Jay Rutherford, Jane Engle, Roger Nickerson, Mary Agnes Weiss, Wayne Beck and George Kotrady in the junior camp and the following in senior camp: Marvin Engle, Alfred Freidel, George Ellsworth, John Dailey, Linda Schneider, Catherine Brinnier, Karen Feeney and Robert and Jane Craig.

Five Game Test Between Yanks and Tribe Could Settle American League Pennant

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland and New York, the two titans of the American League, clash head-on at Yankee Stadium tonight in the first vital five-game series with first place at stake.

The Indians, pre-season pennant favorites, can wrest the top rung from the Yankees, but they must win all five games. They trailed Casey Stengel's crew by 3½ games on the eve of the important series.

At the same time, Chicago's third-place White Sox and Boston's fourth-place Red Sox meet in the first of a three-game series at Fenway Park. All four contenders suffered surprising defeats by second division clubs yesterday.

The Yankees bowed to Detroit's tail-end Tigers, 8-2; Washington whipped the Indians, 15-4; the St. Louis Browns thrashed the Red Sox, 7-5, and the Philadelphia Athletics edged out the White Sox, 2-1 in 10 innings.

In the curtailed National League activity, Brooklyn maintained its 5½-game over New York with a 6-0 triumph in St. Louis after the Giants had vanquished the Reds, 6-2, in Cincinnati. Rain postponed the scheduled Philadelphia Phillies-Cubs game in Chicago. Boston and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Easter Returns

The Indians will be bolstered by the return of Luke Easter. The big Negro first baseman was recalled from Indianapolis yesterday and ordered to join the Indians in time for tonight's game.

The Indians could have used Easter's bat yesterday as they were held to eight hits in losing to Washington. The Nats clubbed starter Sam Jones and two relievers for 15 hits and were helped by five errors and nine walks.

Dave Madison hurled eight scoreless innings for the Browns but was batted out of the box in a hectic ninth when Boston got its five runs on homers by Dick Gernert and Dom DiMaggio. The Browns teed off on starter Ray Scarborough for five tallies in the first. Dick Kryhoski batted in two runs with three hits.

Billy Hoeft, rookie Tiger southpaw, spaced 10 Yankee hits effectively to record his first Major League win. He was supported by a nine-hit attack, five coming off the bat of first baseman Walter Dropo. Jim McDonald was the loser.

Carl Erskine turned back the fast-moving Cardinals with three hits as he recorded his third shutout and his tenth win for Brooklyn. The Dodgers snapped a scoreless duel in the fifth, clubbing starter Cloyd Boyer and Eddie Yuhas for five runs.

Bobby Thomson and Whitey Lockman cracked four hits apiece to help the Giants down the Reds as Jim Hearn picked up his 10th triumph, spacing 10 hits.

Guard Spahn After Threat

Chicago, July 15 (AP)—Because of a threatening letter, star pitcher Warren Spahn of the Boston Braves will get police protection during a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs starting today.

Andrew Aitken, chief of detectives, said in assigning a detail to guard Spahn the letter obviously was inspired by the June 8 injury of Cub outfielder Frankie Baumholtz. One of Spahn's pitches struck and broke Baumholtz' right hand.

The unsigned letter, received in Pittsburgh by Spahn during a recent Braves' series there, contained a newspaper clipping of Baumholtz' injury. It read in part:

"x x x when you come back to Chicago, I'll see you and make good. I know what hotel you stay at, you ————. This is not a crank letter, but a sore head like you will get it from me. I'll get you somehow, you can be handled."

Aitken said a crank "obviously" sent the letter but added "we are taking no chances."

Plans Underway For Roads Race; Slated August 17

Area sports enthusiasts of Kingston and the Highmount Chamber of Commerce publicity departments are working on the promotion of a roads race for sports cars at the Highmount and Belleayre Mountain Ski Center August 17.

The races will be in the form of time trials, single starts, and will be held under the auspices of the Eastern United States Center of the MGM Club of America and the American Automobile Association.

Known as the Belleayre Mountain champinship, the races will be run over the route from the Highmount Country Club to the top of Belleayre Ski Center over a two mile side road and will not not interfere with traffic. The hill climb will be from an elevation of 1,900 to 2,500 feet.

Each car will get off to an individual start and the winner will be determined by the elapsed time for the run. Contestants will use mostly foreign made sports cars.

The MG Club of America and the AAA, which sanctions car racing in this country, have tentatively approved the August date. Herman T. Lukow, president of the Highmount Chamber of Commerce, who has been actively interested in securing this race for the Catskill mountain region, is general chairman of the races and has attended several hill climb races in this and other states and the interest shown caused him to seek a contest here. Lukow contacted clubs, committees and drivers in various automobile organizations, and received assurance of support for the Belleayre Mountain event.

85 Drivers Interested

To date, it is reported there have been 85 drivers who have indicated a desire to enter the Bellayre hill climb race and it is expected there will be additional entries.

The sport, which has become increasingly popular in this country, will provide another summer attraction in the Catskill mountains and will be an additional event to attract people to Kingston during the tercentenary celebration this summer.

On the day of the race Sheriff Cluett Schantz will have deputies patrol the route of the race and the Boy Scouts of the area will put on a mammoth parade. Any financial profit from the promotion will go to the benefit of the Boy Scouts.

Entries Close July 31

Official entry blanks are now available together with rules of the contest and may be obtained from Highmount, Chamber of Commerce. Entries will close July 31, at regular fees but will be accepted to August 7, at additional fee.

All cars entered will undergo a technical inspection the day before the races at the Charles Griffin Garage in Pine Hill. This inspection will be from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. August 16. Practice runs will also be permitted Saturday, August 16, from 2 p. m. until 4 p. m. The championship hill climb will take place from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Sunday, August 17. The course is approximately two miles in length. Awards will be made first and second place winners in each of the classes.

Grant Tolly, 2 Lantern Road, Levittown, L. I., will receive the applications. Tolly is co-chairman, of the event and is a member of the MG Car Club contest board. There will be 10 classes registered for the event, including women drivers.

First for Umpire

Chicago (AP) — Gordon Froese, newest member of the American League's umpiring staff, ejected his first player from a game only eight days after reporting as an arbiter. The guy who was at the wrong end of the thumb was Manager Paul Richards of the White Sox. It was Richards' sixth banishment of the season.

Popular Game Bird

Shelburne, Nova Scotia (AP)—The first large-scale attempt to establish the Chinese ring-necked pheasant in this area will be made next fall when sportsmen plan to release about 500. The pheasant chicks were bought from trappist monks at Oka, Quebec.

Largest YMCA Day Camp Enrollment, Schafer Announces

The largest fourth week enrollment in the 10-year history of the YMCA Pine Knoll Day Camp was announced today by Camp Director Lou Schafer.

The camp, located at DeWitt Lake, opened its fourth week today with over 150 boys and girls, Schafer said.

Two days of rain interfered with the camp program to some extent last week but Schafer and his 15 counselors had things "humming" just the same. Story hours, stunts and stories told by campers, featured the indoor program. Campers telling the best stories were awarded special prizes and refreshments.

A total of 28 boys and girls have been taught to swim during the first three weeks, all swimming 50 yards or more as required by the YMCA national swimming test for the Minnow Club. Many others are well started on beginner's technique and should make their 50-yard swim this week. Some of these boys and girls are five and six years old, Schafer said, pointing out that most of those passing the test to date have been seven, eight and nine years old.

Swimming championships for the mid-camp season will be held this week, and many are practicing their fancy diving. Names of winners in last week's mid-camp running and jumping events will be announced later.

Wicks to Relate Convention Inside

What went on inside New York's 96-vote delegation to the Republican National Convention will be revealed by State Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, delegate from this district, at a meeting of the Kingston Rotary Club tomorrow noon.

Senator Wicks, back from Chicago after attending his fifth national convention, today preferred not to comment on the text of his talk, but revealed that he will explain why it was not necessary for Governor Thomas E. Dewey to use pressure of any kind to line up the state's delegates behind Eisenhower.

There appeared to be a growing feeling in local Republican circles that the state's delegates swung aboard the Eisenhower bandwagon because they were alienated by some of the tactics of the pro-Taft camp, and not because of any pressure from Dewey. Aware of some of the attacks upon New York's delegation, local persons who followed the convention in the newspapers and on radio and TV are awaiting with interest Sen. Wick's report on the reactions of this state's delegation members.

It was apparent this morning in local Republican circles that the blame for whatever bitterness may have been present in the early days of the convention was being laid not to Senator Robert A. Taft personally but to several of his perhaps over-enthusiastic supporters. Local Republicans generally echoed the hope expressed by national leaders that the party unite behind its candidate and forget past differences.

Says He's the One Who Can Beat Ike

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia gestures during press conference in New York after arrival by plane from Washington, D. C. He said he is the "one Democrat who can beat Eisenhower," the Republican nominee. Expressing confidence he will have 300 votes on the first Democratic national convention ballot, he said "I wouldn't swap places with any other candidate."

Democrats Look

ver's delegate strength or when the Tennessean will see the winning number.

"Taft's people did that right up to the convention," Sullivan recalled. "They had 550, and 590 and 603—and look what happened.

"I'll just say that Estes has a tide of support coming his way."

Sen. Kerr, sitting on the edge of hotelroom bed, told some reporters he has a minimum of 150 first-ballot votes, and said "I wouldn't trade my chances with anyone . . . fact is, I'm going to be nominated."

Not Only Candidates

These are not the only major Democratic candidates.

Vice President Alben Barkley is another. And Russell's manager says he thinks the "Veep" is the man to beat, even while conceding that Kefeuver will be out in front in the early stages of the race.

Headquarters have been established for Averell Harriman of New York, director of the Mutual Security Administration.

Harriman, Barkley, Russell and Kefauver are the leading contenders at this point in the view of Frank McKinney, chairman of the national committee. He added with the general opinion that it is a wide open race. McKinney arrived last night.

Meanwhile, the surprisingly durable and long-lived rumors about Gov. Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois, were still haunting the corridors of the Conrad Hilton Hotel, central arena for all the pre-convention hubbub.

Stevenson says, virtually every hour on the hour, that he doesn't want the nomination. There is a report that the President no longer is trying to persuade him, another is that Jacob Arvey, of Chicago, one of the original and most emphatic backers of the Governor, also has decided not to press him any further.

But another story has it that the Illinois delegates are marshalling for a draft-Stevenson drive next week. The governor recently said he would ask these and all other delgates not to bring his name before the convention.

Kefauver and Russell are expected in Chicago late today to take personal charge of their operations. The others will be here later in the week.

Appeals Court May Act Today On Kelly Trial

The case of Edward H. Kelly of Kingston sentenced to die for the fatal shooting of Eloise McHugh May 22, 1950, was one of 60 undecided cases due to be heard today by the Court of Appeals in Albany, the Associated Press reported this morning.

Kelly, the report said, won a new trial from the high court June 1, 1951. His case was one of two murder cases returned to the court for a second time.

Judges had reversed the original convictions on Kelly and Camilo Leyra, Jr., of Brooklyn, who was found guilty twice in the hammer slaying of his elderly parents. His original conviction was upset by the court April 12, 1951.

The Court of Appeals also was scheduled to decide today on the validity of the state's special grand jury probe of any illicit gambling or corruption in Saratoga county.

Virginia Has Primary

Richmond, Va., July 15 (AP)—Virginia's stormy Democratic primary campaign between economy-minded Sen. Harry F. Byrd and Francis Pickens Miller wound up at the polls today. Upwards of 250,000 voters were expected to cast their ballots in some of the summer's hottest weather. Polls at the 1,517 voting places across the state open at 6:30 a. m. (EST) and close at 7:30 p. m. The prize to the winner almost certainly will be the Senate seat which Byrd now has held for 19 years. In Virginia, the Democratic nomination has been tantamount to election.

Beirne Says Ike Would Be Lost To His Advisers

Washington, July 15 (AP)—A top CIO leader today termed Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican candidate, a "rank amateur" in the field of civil government and said that on major domestic issues he would be a "prisoner of his own advisers."

Joseph A. Beirne, a CIO vice president and head of 300,000 CIO communication workers, said in an interview before leaving for Chicago and the Democratic presidential nomination convention:

"Eisenhower has unquestionably been a great military leader but if he is elected president he will be helpless on the great domestic issues facing the country such as the Taft-Hartley labor law, civil rights legislation, federal aid to the states and others.

"He will have to depend completely on his advisers in making domestic policy decisions, rather than making up his own mind."

On Platform Committee

Beirne is a member of the Platform Committee at the national Democratic convention. One of the CIO's newer and younger leaders, he is sometimes regarded as a possible successor to CIO President Philip Murray.

Some segments of organized labor have been finding fault with Eisenhower for months. The CIO, staunch supporter of Democratic national candidates ever since its formation in 1936, recently said editorially in one of its publications that Eisenhower's campaign was "out-Tafting Taft."

But the other and larger labor confederation, the AFL, does not now, nor has it ever, counted all its leaders in the same political camp.

Samuel Gompers, one of the founders of the AFL, was a conservative. He steered clear of party affiliation, opposed the formation of a labor party and urged his followers to vote for the friends of labor.

Actually, observers say the term "labor vote" has little significance. Organized labor does not vote in a hard bloc no matter how strenuously its political leaders may work for a candidate.

Eisenhower Plans

saying "we have all got to pull together" to win in November.

Aides to the general believed he soon may name what one Eisenhower leader called "a sort of chief of staff" for campaign operations.

Walter Williams of Seattle, chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee, described the job that way after conferring with Eisenhower yesterday.

Williams said the general talked about creating such a post, and that he made it plain the job would be different from that of campaign manager —an assignment now open.

The chief of staff, Williams said, would be Eisenhower's personal representative who would take charge of Eisenhower's own headquarters.

May Not Replace Lodge

Williams speculated that a manager may not be named to replace Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who has resigned to devote more time to his own campaign for re-election to the Senate.

Other Eisenhower associates said, however, they look for the general to name a successor to Lodge soon. Williams had said it looked to him as though Eisenhower himself would call the signals with the help of Arthur F. Summerfield of Michigan, the new chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Homing pigeons carrying messages can be expected to fly 100 to 150 miles at about 37 miles per hour.

Superliner Is Back

maintained by the United States on her homeward trip. This was below the 35.59-knot average on the record eastward trip of three days, 10 hours and 40 minutes.

The new vessel's marks were the first transatlantic speed records set by American passenger ships in a century. The last U. S. blue ribbon winners—in 1851 and 1852—were the 2,860-ton wooden paddle steamers Baltic and Pacific. The nine-day-plus marks of these two sister ships were upset in 1856.

Officials of the U. S. Lines never have disclosed the top speed of the United States, and it is believed that the vessel may be capable of even higher speeds than she made on the 5,844-nautical-mile round-trip maiden voyage.

Commodore Harry Manning, the skipper, and his crew will be honored by New York city on Friday with a Broadway ticker tape parade.

Phoenicia Nimrods Will Meet Thursday

A special meeting of the Phoenicia Fish and Game Association will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Ski Hut, it was announced today by Earl Conro, secretary.

The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding whether to purchase 10,000 or 20,000 fingerling brown trout at a special price of $50 per 100, offered by the Berkshire Trout Farms of Sheffield, Mass. The trout would be used for stocking tributaries of the Esopus creek.

Wicks to Relate Convention Inside

What went on inside New York's 96-vote delegation to the Republican National Convention will be revealed by State Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, delegate from this district, at a meeting of the Kingston Rotary Club tomorrow noon.

Senator Wicks, back from Chicago after attending his fifth national convention, today preferred not to comment on the text of his talk, but revealed that he will explain why it was not necessary for Governor Thomas E. Dewey to use pressure of any kind to line up the state's delegates behind Eisenhower.

There appeared to be a growing feeling in local Republican circles that the state's delegates swung aboard the Eisenhower bandwagon because they were alienated by some of the tactics of the pro-Taft camp, and not because of any pressure from Dewey. Aware of some of the attacks upon New York's delegation, local persons who followed the convention in the newspapers and on radio and TV are awaiting with interest Sen. Wick's report on the reactions of this state's delegation members.

It was apparent this morning in local Republican circles that the blame for whatever bitterness may have been present in the early days of the convention was being laid not to Senator Robert A. Taft personally but to several of his perhaps over-enthusiastic supporters. Local Republicans generally echoed the hope expressed by national leaders that the party unite behind its candidate and forget past differences.

Says He's the One Who Can Beat Ike

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia gestures during press conference in New York after arrival by plane from Washington, D. C. Renounces Title, GI War Bride Becomes Citizen

Philadelphia, July 15 (AP) — A former German baroness who came to the United States as a GI war bride yesterday renounced her title to become an American citizen.

The former baroness, Mrs. Marianna Kulaski, 37, of Phoenixville, Pa., took the oath of citizenship with 176 others before Federal Judge Guy K. Bard, who resigned shortly afterwards to campaign for the U. S. Senate on the Democratic ticket.

Mrs. Kulaski, a brunette, was the Baroness Marianna Von Kap-Herr when she met Sgt. Felix Kulaski in a Munich army post exchange where she was employed. They were married in 1946 and came to this country two years later.

Kulaski, whose home is in White Plains, N. Y., is now with the supply department at Valley Forge Army Hospital in Phoenixville.

Mrs. Kulaski appeared in court with her four-year-old daughter, Monica. The couple also has a son, Peter, two.

As Pegler Sees It

Mr. Goldwater is a leading Arizona Republican.

"I think he is, somewheres."

"Have you ever been in Arizona?"

"Well, I went through Phoenix, once, on a train, but we have got the winner and we are going to put him over."

Now this is not a freak. And Ike's spontaneous popular demonstration was worse fraud than any other. I recount the incident just to show what disgraceful fakes these rowdy scenes are, organized by nasty politicians to indicate that this or that candidate's very name stirs multitudes to uncontrollable enthusiam.

It is a racket against the nation and the people, run by cheap little lawyers, contractors and governors whose respect for the political freedom which they holler up is so little that they hire their mercenaries out in the alley and drag out proceedings for hours. I did observe that the non-participants seemed wearier this time than at any other convention in my experience, but I attribute this difference to other factors. The noise was only routine; the fools in queer caps and hats that were not funny but absurd were no sillier than any other batch of fools I ever saw. But this time many of the real people were afraid in their hearts that the very life of the United States was threatened — their families, their homes, their ideals, the formless, impalpable beauties that glow in our souls—and they were frightened.

The convention system of nomination is wrong. It frustrates the written mandate of the constitution which orders that the sovereign states, as states, rather than their citizens, as people, shall select representatives to vote for presidents. Each state is allowed a number of electors equal to the number of its senators and representatives in Congress. But that constitutional system has been ignored for a hundred years and meanwhile the party convention system has degenerated into the vile spectacle which disgusted so many citizens here this week.

General Eisenhower was not nominated by the delegates. He was nominated by Thomas E. Dewey, governor of New York, twice rejected in the popular elections and one of the most cynical hypocrites in our political history, working in open collaboration with the Wall Street Giants, Winthrop Aldrich, Nelson Rockefeller and Henry Ford II. On Tuesday night, they sat together in a box a few feet from Dewey's position at the head of the New York delegation. Paul Hoffman, the head of Ford's enormous foundation, a mountain of money which old Henry received from the American people in fair reward for his enterprise, is a Roosevelt New Dealer now turned to Ike with many another of the same type. These foundations have an ominious potential power to harm the United States. But we keep hands off and let them meddle in our politics and in international affairs at the whim of men who are strangers to us, who shape their own purposes without consulting us and put the power of money over all but their own judgments.

A confusing, frightening change has occurred in many of our rich men. Nelson Rockefeller; Aldrich, who is related to the Rockefellers; Marshall Field; Averell Harriman, with an inheritance of $40 million derived from American opportunity by an exploiter never noted for his generosity to labor; and now the Ford Foundation, have been playing a dubious role in affairs. And, in this case, Rockefeller, Aldrich and the Ford Foundation were together against Taft, the incorruptible, conservative Republican.

As Henry Mencken wrote long ago, we Americans are always wanting solutions. We are never content with mere progress. I long for a solution of this fearsome development in our government but I would be grateful for little steps of progress on the way. And I believe discussion of the menace to arouse interest is a beginning.

Musical Concert Series Announced

Woodstock, July 15—A series of three Concerts Dardenne will be presented this summer, it has been announced by Victor Dardenne, director, and during the winter season violinist with the Metropolitan Opera. The concerts will be given Saturdays at 4 p. m., at his studio in Wittenberg, July 26, August 9 and 23.

During the first concert Mrs. Agnete B. Mundt, soprano, formerly with the Chicago Opera Company, will be featured soloist. John D. Janni, first violist of the Metropolitan Opera, will also be presented in several numbers with Mrs. Zelinda V. Dardenne, pianist, chairman of the music department of the New York city high schools, and Dardenne, violinist.

The first program, which will be presented on the lawn of the Dardenne home, will open with a Loeillet Sonate a Trois, played by Dardenne, Janni and Mrs. Dardenne, and will close with a Mozart Trio. Mrs. Mundt's songs will include Ha! Faithless One by Beethoven, Grieg's A Dream, and Richard Hoffman's Do Not Go My Love. A highlight of the concert will be the presentation of Mon Coeur S'Ouvre a ta Voix, from Saint-Saens opera Sampson and Delilah. Solos by Victor Dardenne will include Romance in F by Beethoven, Chopin's Nocturne in E Flat, and Dream in the Twilight by Richard Strauss.

Dardenne, who is the owner of two world famous violins, the Stradivarius made in 1690, and the Carlo Bergonzi instrument, the Lord Kingston, will probably play his magnificent Strad.

"I cannot alternate playing one or the other instrument," Dardenne explained as he showed the two beautiful instruments recently. Both violins have been heard played together at many Metropolitan Opera performances as Dardenne frequently loans the Carlo Bergonzi to the first concert master of the orchestra. "I'm happy to have him play it," smiled Dardenne, "because he's completely transported with delight when he has the opportunity."

Both instruments are Italian, the Bergonzi, which is a fraction of an inch longer than the Strad, Dardenne pointed out, is darker in tone. Once when he was practicing at his Wittenberg studio, he was overheard by another musician who thought he was playing a cello. Dardenne also possesses several equally prized bows, made by the Frenchman Tourte, the first music craftsman to make the bow as it is now.

For the second concert Anton Rovinski, celebrated pianist will come from New York to be heard in a Jean Sibelius sonata, modern and important work of the master, to be played for the first time in Woodstock. The third concert will be presented by the Community Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Dardenne. Clara Chichester, well known Woodstock pianist will play a sonata of Richard Strauss with Dardenne.

Later in the season a reception will be given by the Dardennes for the artists who appear in the series and for the sponsors of the concerts. Sponsor tickets and further information may be obtained by communicating with Floran E. Griggs, secretary, Bearsville, RFD.

Artists Present Juried Painting Show at Gallery

Woodstock, July 15—Following the highly successful sculpture and drawing show at the Woodstock Art Gallery, a juried painting show for members of the Artists Association opened Saturday afternoon with a reception. Although many of the canvases on view are light and brilliant in key, the somberly impressive Quarry at Night by Fletcher is arresting, a study in intriguing greys. Alex Redein's Key West Landscape is characteristically scintillating. A Seurat influence may be observed in Sally Jacobs filting version of the Wedding, and Mary Earley's Precursive Tidings contains vision and motion in its form and color.

Touching a deep, rich color vein, E. Peters' Two Figures in a powerful study, while Eugene Ludins whimsical Rare Birds makes immediate bid for attention.

There appears to be this season a noticeable trend at the Art Gallery towards more representational painting, although the abstract group is varied from Rosemarie Beck's Painting to Elfriede Borkmann's Circus.

The exhibition will be on view at the Gallery until July 24, to be followed by a Small Things juried show in all media, from July 26 to August 14.

Assisting Mrs. Charles Sheldon, chairman of the hostess committee, Saturday afternoon were Mrs. Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Mrs. Tomas Penning, Mrs. Edward Millman and Mrs. Jerry Walters.

Blind Sale Planned For Village July 25

Woodstock, July 15—The Woodstock sale for the blind will be held Friday, July 25, at Rudolph's building located at the rear of the gallery. Residents of this village and vicinity are urged to visit the sale. The hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mrs. John Wolven is serving as general chairman of the sale.

The blind make and offer for sale many practical and economical household articles that are used every day in the home. Every purchase directly benefits the blind, as the selling price of each article is composed of the cost of materials plus the wages paid the blind worker.

Mystery Thriller At the Playhouse

VIOLA HARRIS

Woodstock, July 15—"Uninhibited mystery fans should have a high old time with this play," the New York World Telegram critic wrote in his review of Portrait in Black, the suspense thriller of stage and screen which opens with an all-Broadway cast at the Woodstock Playhouse tonight. Directed by Robert H. Harris from the script of Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts, this chill-and-shudder twister will play through Sunday, July 20.

Viola Harris of the Broadway and national touring hit, On the Town, takes her first role of the 1952 season as Tanis Talbot, crafty widow of a powerful shipping magnate.

Thom Carney, the rejected, oafish suitor in last week's comedy, plays the family attorney, also in love with Tanis. Marian Russell plays Winifred, daughter of the deceased shipping tycoon and step-daughter of Tanis. Robert Baines assumes the role of a young labor leader in love with Winifred; and Harry Mehaffey and Molly Lyman play the chauffeur and housekeeper. Danny Perlman, local youngster, will play the small son, Peter Talbot.

New York Times critic Brooks Atkinson described the play as a series of "grisly episodes" presented in an "astonishingly cultured style."

The setting for the play was designed by Margaret McDonough.

Eminent Playwright And Family Are Here

Woodstock, July 15—Howard Koch, eminent playwright, well-known in Kingston, arrived with Mrs. Koch and their son, Peter, to spend the remainder of the summer and fall at the Woodstock home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hard.

Koch, whose home is in Palm Springs, Calif., has been writing for the movies for the past few years, and has returned to the east to complete revisions on a new play, The Glass House, which is scheduled for production on Broadway this fall.

A play titled In Time to Come, by Koch was produced on Broadway in 1942. Koch plans to be in Woodstock until about November 1.

Art Films Shown At Local Gallery

Woodstock, July 15—The second in the series of art films being shown by the Cinema Club, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Art Gallery, was visible evidence of how expertly the camera may be used to heighten appreciation and understanding of the artist and his work. It was particularly vividly demonstrated in the film on the life and times of Henri Toulouse-Lautrec, which would appear to follow out the precepts necessary for a successful art film as presented last fall during the film festival panel discussion.

"The camera must go beyond, behind and within the work of art — the camera must have some logic and not just jump around," said Aline Louchheim, art critic of the New York Times, while participating in the discussions at the Playhouse last September. "An art film must stand up as a film as well as a work of art with more attention given to narration. The challenge of the art film is that it should make art more and more understandable."

The Toulouse-Lautrec film, produced by Spencer Samuels and written and directed by Peter Riethof, certainly fulfills all of these requirements. In exploring the events in the life of the artist and his motives, it adheres to a dramatic story line, using familiar Parisian scenes in the round to break up the shots of the artist's paintings and drawings. Consequently it stands up as radiant color film into which the personality of the artist himself has been breathed, rendering his work all the more dramatic and alive. Coupled with excellent narration, the film succeeds in telling a story —a good story of Paris in its Bohemian heyday, colorful, bawdy, carefree, yet fundamentally tragic.

The same attention has also been given to the artist's approach to his work in the film on the life of the famous English sculptor and painter, Henry Moore. The subject of violent controversy since his sculpture was shown at the Museum of Modern Art, Moore's striking forms gain continuity and purpose under the searching eye of the camera. Filmed in color the textures of the stone, wood, and even the string and wire he employs for certain effects, are enhanced. An American British Art Center production, the Moore film introduced the artist himself to explain the insistent appeal of the wonderful people deliniated in his famous Shelter Notebook.

The film, titled 1848, although it deals with a turbulent period in the history of France, fails to project the emotions of the participants simply because it remains in the category of art films which employ paintings, prints or drawings unrelieved by the filmmaker's wide choice of devices.

The African sculpture film, Buma, illustrated through the use of masks, sculpture and decorative costume, reveals the primitive man's fears. To dispel his fears, the African created his symbols of courage to cover all the events of his life. A large field for study has been condensed into an absorbing film.

As an added dividend, the audience was treated to an old Charlie Chaplin film, the Paperhanger, prefaced by a few remarks on the art of pantomime, by Sidney Berkowitz, director of the Cinema Club.

The club will present the third in the series of films at the Art Gallery next Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Judge Manierre One of Founders Of Republicanism

Woodstock, July 15—With attention focused during the past week on the Republican convention, not many villagers were aware that one of the summer residents here, Harold Manierre, a native of Chicago, is the grandson of Judge George Manierre who, according to documents now in his possession, was "inseparably connected with the history of the Republican party and its formation." Manierre's documents attest to Judge Manierre's presence at the historical convention held in Aurora, Ill., September 19, 1854. "He was one of the five who issued the call and was made chairman of the committee on resolutions and drafted and presented, with the concurrence of the balance of the committee, the party platform, and suggested the adoption of the name Republican for the new party."

Judge Manierre migrated from the east to Chicago in 1835, via the long trip through the Great Lakes, at the age of 18 when the metropolis was but a little town with muddy streets, and a population of 1,000 inhabitants, according to his grandson. As a young lawyer, Manierre rose to positions of prominence. He was appointed to the post of Judge of the 7th Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, became a trustee of Chicago University, and was largely responsible for the city's park system.

The news clippings in Manierre's possession also reveal that his grandfather attended the meeting at which the Republican party was organized in Chicago, in the Tremont Hotel, July 5, 1854, by Cassius M. Clay, preliminary to the first Republican convention. The Republican party, according to Manierre's documents, "did not find birth in Pennsylvania as has been claimed, but rather that its organization first found inception through the action of the people of Kane County, Illinois.

During the summer of 1854, a call was sent out for a mass convention at Genera to be held August 20. This call was widely circulated throughout Kane County and was signed by many of the leading men in the whig, abolition and free-soil parties. As the call stated it, they were to meet irrespective of previous party affiliations for the purpose of organizing a party to resist the extension of slavery into the territories of Kansas and Nebraska and all other territories within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States."

Judge Manierre was described in the newspaper accounts of his participation in the affairs of his country "not as a politician but a statesman." A friend of Lincoln's, Judge Manierre wrote frequently to the president to whom he gave his support.

Evidently inheriting the same venture some spirit as that possessed by his grandfather, Harold Manierre joined the Franco-American Aviation Corps, in 1917, which was attached to the First Regiment of the French Foreign Legion. The unit was an outgrowth of the Lafayette Esquadrille which drew many eager young Americans at the time to its ranks. In 1918, Manierre joined the Naval Aviation Detachment from Cambridge, Mass., as chief quartermaster. Since that time he has travelled extensively about the world. He purchased a home on Ohayo Mountain in 1941, after spending several summers in Byrdcliffe and at Mead's Mountain House. Only recently he learned that an ancestor of his mother's, Lewis Edson, came to Woodstock from Bridgewater, Conn., in 1817, and died here in 1820.

Feinberg Twins Hold Local Exhibition

Woodstock, July 15—The Feinberg twins, Mildred and Minna, of New York, who have won fame as the advertising artists for Best and Company, are holding an exhibition of their paintings, both oil and water color, at the Town House. The show opened Friday afternoon with a reception.

Painting as a unique team, the twin artists frequently complete a canvas together. A lambent street scene, sketched in Nassau by Minna, was later developed into the final painting by Mildred. They also created together a large canvas with a pair of sleeping children decoratively surrounded by a gay patchwork quilt in an aura of phantasy.

Mildred's painting of Children at Play is mobile and gay in contrast to the quiet appeal in her Antique Barn. There are two charming Rockport street scenes, both painted from the same vantage point, one twin looking up the street and the other down the same road. The twins are particularly adept in the handling of water color and one alcove of the gallery is devoted to a group of them by both artists, who are students of Alex Redein, noted Woodstock painter.

Renounces Title, GI War Bride Becomes Citizen

Philadelphia, July 15 (AP) — A former German baroness who came to the United States as a GI war bride yesterday renounced her title to become an American citizen.

The former baroness, Mrs. Marianna Kulaski, 37, of Phoenixville, Pa., took the oath of citizenship with 176 others before Federal Judge Guy K. Bard, who resigned shortly afterwards to campaign for the U. S. Senate on the Democratic ticket.

Mrs. Kulaski, a brunette, was the Baroness Marianna Von Kap-Herr when she met Sgt. Felix Kulaski in a Munich army post exchange where she was employed. They were married in 1946 and came to this country two years later.

Kulaski, whose home is in White Plains, N. Y., is now with the supply department at Valley Forge Army Hospital in Phoenixville.

Mrs. Kulaski appeared in court with her four-year-old daughter, Monica. The couple also has a son, Peter, two.

As Pegler Sees It

Mr. Goldwater is a leading Arizona Republican.

"I think he is, somewheres."

"Have you ever been in Arizona?"

"Well, I went through Phoenix, once, on a train, but we have got the winner and we are going to put him over."

Now this is not a freak. And Ike's spontaneous popular demonstration was worse fraud than any other. I recount the incident just to show what disgraceful fakes these rowdy scenes are, organized by nasty politicians to indicate that this or that candidate's very name stirs multitudes to uncontrollable enthusiam.

It is a racket against the nation and the people, run by cheap little lawyers, contractors and governors whose respect for the political freedom which they holler up is so little that they hire their mercenaries out in the alley and drag out proceedings for hours. I did observe that the non-participants seemed wearier this time than at any other convention in my experience, but I attribute this difference to other factors. The noise was only routine; the fools in queer caps and hats that were not funny but absurd were no sillier than any other batch of fools I ever saw. But this time many of the real people were afraid in their hearts that the very life of the United States was threatened — their families, their homes, their ideals, the formless, impalpable beauties that glow in our souls—and they were frightened.

The convention system of nomination is wrong. It frustrates the written mandate of the constitution which orders that the sovereign states, as states, rather than their citizens, as people, shall select representatives to vote for presidents. Each state is allowed a number of electors equal to the number of its senators and representatives in Congress. But that constitutional system has been ignored for a hundred years and meanwhile the party convention system has degenerated into the vile spectacle which disgusted so many citizens here this week.

General Eisenhower was not nominated by the delegates. He was nominated by Thomas E. Dewey, governor of New York, twice rejected in the popular elections and one of the most cynical hypocrites in our political history, working in open collaboration with the Wall Street Giants, Winthrop Aldrich, Nelson Rockefeller and Henry Ford II. On Tuesday night, they sat together in a box a few feet from Dewey's position at the head of the New York delegation. Paul Hoffman, the head of Ford's enormous foundation, a mountain of money which old Henry received from the American people in fair reward for his enterprise, is a Roosevelt New Dealer now turned to Ike with many another of the same type. These foundations have an ominious potential power to harm the United States. But we keep hands off and let them meddle in our politics and in international affairs at the whim of men who are strangers to us, who shape their own purposes without consulting us and put the power of money over all but their own judgments.

A confusing, frightening change has occurred in many of our rich men. Nelson Rockfeller; Aldrich, who is related to the Rockefellers; Marshall Field; Averell Harriman, with an inheritance of $40 million derived from American opportunity by an exploiter never noted for his generosity to labor; and now the Ford Foundation, have been playing a dubious role in affairs. And, in this case, Rockefeller, Aldrich and the Ford Foundation were together against Taft, the incorruptible, conservative Republican.

As Henry Mencken wrote long ago, we Americans are always wanting solutions. We are never content with mere progress. I long for a solution of this fearsome development in our government but I would be grateful for little steps of progress on the way. And I believe discussion of the menace to arouse interest is a beginning.

Musical Concert Series Announced

Woodstock, July 15—A series of three Concerts Dardenne will be presented this summer, it has been announced by Victor Dardenne, director, and during the winter season violinist with the Metropolitan Opera. The concerts will be given Saturdays at 4 p. m., at his studio in Wittenberg, July 26, August 9 and 23.

During the first concert Mrs. Agnete B. Mundt, soprano, formerly with the Chicago Opera Company, will be featured soloist. John D. Janni, first violist of the Metropolitan Opera, will also be presented in several numbers with Mrs. Zelinda V. Dardenne, pianist, chairman of the music department of the New York city high schools, and Dardenne, violinist.

The first program, which will be presented on the lawn of the Dardenne home, will open with a Locillet Sonate a Trois, played by Dardenne, Janni and Mrs. Dardenne, and will close with a Mozart Trio. Mrs. Mundt's songs will include Ha! Faithless One by Beethoven, Grieg's A Dream, and Richard Hoffman's Do Not Go My Love. A highlight of the concert will be the presentation of Mon Coeur S'Ouvre a ta Voix, from Saint-Saens opera Sampson and Delilah. Solos by Victor Dardenne will include Romance in F by Beethoven, Chopin's Nocturne in E Flat, and Dream in the Twilight by Richard Strauss.

Dardenne, who is the owner of two world famous violins, the Stradivarius made in 1690, and the Carlo Bergonzi instrument, the Lord Kingston, will probably play his magnificent Strad.

"I cannot alternate playing one or the other instrument," Dardenne explained as he showed the two beautiful instruments recently. Both violins have been heard played together at many Metropolitan Opera performances as Dardenne frequently loans the Carlo Bergonzi to the first concert master of the orchestra. "I'm happy to have him play it," smiled Dardenne, "because he's completely transported with delight when he has the opportunity."

Both instruments are Italian, the Bergonzi, which is a fraction of an inch longer than the Strad, Dardenne pointed out, is darker in tone. Once when he was practicing at his Wittenberg studio, he was overheard by another musician who thought he was playing a cello. Dardenne also possesses several equally prized bows, made by the Frenchman Tourte, the first music craftsman to make the bow as it is now.

For the second concert Anton Rovinski, celebrated pianist will come from New York to be heard in a Jean Sibelius sonata, modern and important work of the master, to be played for the first time in Woodstock. The third concert will be presented by the Community Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Dardenne. Clara Chichester, well known Woodstock pianist will play a sonata of Richard Strauss with Dardenne.

Later in the season a reception will be given by the Dardennes for the artists who appear in the series and for the sponsors of the concerts. Sponsor tickets and further information may be obtained by communicating with Floran E. Griggs, secretary, Bearsville, RFD.

Artists Present Juried Painting Show at Gallery

Woodstock, July 15—Following the highly successful sculpture and drawing show at the Woodstock Art Gallery, a juried painting show for members of the Artists Association opened Saturday afternoon with a reception. Although many of the canvases on view are light and brilliant in key, the somberly impressive Quarry at Night by Fletcher is arresting, a study in intriguing greys. Alex Redein's Key West Landscape is characteristically scintillating. A Seurat influence may be observed in Sally Jacobs filting version of the Wedding, and Mary Earley's Precursive Tidings contains vision and motion in its form and color.

Touching a deep, rich color vein, E. Peters' Two Figures in a powerful study, while Eugene Ludins whimsical Rare Birds makes immediate bid for attention.

There appears to be this season a noticeable trend at the Art Gallery towards more representational painting, although the abstract group is varied from Rosemarie Beck's Painting to Elfriede Borkmann's Circus.

The exhibition will be on view at the Gallery until July 24, to be followed by a Small Things juried show in all media, from July 26 to August 14.

Assisting Mrs. Charles Sheldon, chairman of the hostess committee, Saturday afternoon were Mrs. Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Mrs. Tomas Penning, Mrs. Edward Millman and Mrs. Jerry Walters.

Blind Sale Planned For Village July 25

Woodstock, July 15—The Woodstock sale for the blind will be held Friday, July 25, at Rudolph's building located at the rear of the gallery. Residents of this village and vicinity are urged to visit the sale. The hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mrs. John Wolven is serving as general chairman of the sale.

The blind make and offer for sale many practical and economical household articles that are used every day in the home. Every purchase directly benefits the blind, as the selling price of each article is composed of the cost of materials plus the wages paid the blind worker.

Mystery Thriller At the Playhouse

VIOLA HARRIS

Woodstock, July 15—"Uninhibited mystery fans should have a high old time with this play," the New York World Telegram critic wrote in his review of Portrait in Black, the suspense thriller of stage and screen which opens with an all-Broadway cast at the Woodstock Playhouse tonight. Directed by Robert H. Harris from the script of Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts, this chill-and-shudder twister will play through Sunday, July 20.

Viola Harris of the Broadway and national touring hit, On the Town, takes her first role of the 1952 season as Tanis Talbot, crafty widow of a powerful shipping magnate.

Thom Carney, the rejected, oafish suitor in last week's comedy, plays the family attorney, also in love with Tanis. Marian Russell plays Winifred, daughter of the deceased shipping tycoon and step-daughter of Tanis. Robert Baines assumes the role of a young labor leader in love with Winifred; and Harry Mehaffey and Molly Lyman play the chauffeur and housekeeper. Danny Perlman, local youngster, will play the small son, Peter Talbot.

New York Times critic Brooks Atkinson described the play as a series of "grisly episodes" presented in an "astonishingly cultured style."

The setting for the play was designed by Margaret McDonough.

Eminent Playwright And Family Are Here

Woodstock, July 15—Howard Koch, eminent playwright, well-known in Kingston, arrived with Mrs. Koch and their son, Peter, to spend the remainder of the summer and fall at the Woodstock home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hard.

Koch, whose home is in Palm Springs, Calif., has been writing for the movies for the past few years, and has returned to the east to complete revisions on a new play, The Glass House, which is scheduled for production on Broadway this fall.

A play titled In Time to Come, by Koch was produced on Broadway in 1942. Koch plans to be in Woodstock until about November 1.

Art Films Shown At Local Gallery

Woodstock, July 15—The second in the series of art films being shown by the Cinema Club, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Art Gallery, was visible evidence of how expertly the camera may be used to heighten appreciation and understanding of the artist and his work. It was particularly vividly demonstrated in the film on the life and times of Henri Toulouse-Lautrec, which would appear to follow out the precepts necessary for a successful art film as presented last fall during the film festival panel discussion.

"The camera must go beyond, behind and within the work of art — the camera must have some logic and not just jump around," said Aline Louchheim, art critic of the New York Times, while participating in the discussions at the Playhouse last September. "An art film must stand up as a film as well as a work of art with more attention given to narration. The challenge of the art film is that it should make art more and more understandable."

The Toulouse-Lautrec film, produced by Spencer Samuels and written and directed by Peter Riethof, certainly fulfills all of these requirements. In exploring the events in the life of the artist and his motives, it adheres to a dramatic story line, using familiar Parisian scenes in the round to break up the shots of the artist's paintings and drawings. Consequently it stands up as radiant color film into which the personality of the artist himself has been breathed, rendering his work all the more dramatic and alive. Coupled with excellent narration, the film succeeds in telling a story —a good story of Paris in its Bohemian heyday, colorful, bawdy, carefree, yet fundamentally tragic.

The same attention has also been given to the artist's approach to his work in the film on the life of the famous English sculptor and painter, Henry Moore. The subject of violent controversy since his sculpture was shown at the Museum of Modern Art, Moore's striking forms gain continuity and purpose under the searching eye of the camera. Filmed in color the textures of the stone, wood, and even the string and wire he employs for certain effects, are enhanced. An American British Art Center production, the Moore film introduced the artist himself to explain the insistent appeal of the wonderful people deliniated in his famous Shelter Notebook.

The film, titled 1848, although it deals with a turbulent period in the history of France, fails to project the emotions of the participants simply because it remains in the category of art films which employ paintings, prints or drawings unrelieved by the filmmaker's wide choice of devices.

The African sculpture film, Buma, illustrated through the use of masks, sculpture and decorative costume, reveals the primitive man's fears. To dispel his fears, the African created his symbols of courage to cover all the events of his life. A large field for study has been condensed into an absorbing film.

As an added dividend, the audience was treated to an old Charlie Chaplin film, the Paperhanger, prefaced by a few remarks on the art of pantomime, by Sidney Berkowitz, director of the Cinema Club.

The club will present the third in the series of films at the Art Gallery next Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Judge Manierre One of Founders Of Republicanism

Woodstock, July 15—With attention focused during the past week on the Republican convention, not many villagers were aware that one of the summer residents here, Harold Manierre, a native of Chicago, is the grandson of Judge George Manierre who, according to documents now in his possession, was "inseparably connected with the history of the Republican party and its formation." Manierre's documents attest to Judge Manierre's presence at the historical convention held in Aurora, Ill., September 19, 1854. "He was one of the five who issued the call and was made chairman of the committee on resolutions and drafted and presented, with the concurrence of the balance of the committee, the party platform, and suggested the adoption of the name Republican for the new party."

Judge Manierre migrated from the east to Chicago in 1835, via the long trip through the Great Lakes, at the age of 18 when the metropolis was but a little town with muddy streets, and a population of 1,000 inhabitants, according to his grandson. As a young lawyer, Manierre rose to positions of prominence. He was appointed to the post of Judge of the 7th Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, became a trustee of Chicago University, and was largely responsible for the city's park system.

The news clippings in Manierre's possession also reveal that his grandfather attended the meeting at which the Republican party was organized in Chicago, in the Tremont Hotel, July 5, 1854, by Cassius M. Clay, preliminary to the first Republican convention. The Republican party, according to Manierre's documents, "did not find birth in Pennsylvania as has been claimed, but rather that its organization first found inception through the action of the people of Kane County, Illinois.

During the summer of 1854, a call was sent out for a mass convention at Genera to be held August 20. This call was widely circulated throughout Kane County and was signed by many of the leading men in the whig, abolition and free-soil parties. As the call stated it, they were to meet irrespective of previous party affiliations for the purpose of organizing a party to resist the extension of slavery into the territories of Kansas and Nebraska and all other territories within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States."

Judge Manierre was described in the newspaper accounts of his participation in the affairs of his country "not as a politician but a statesman." A friend of Lincoln's, Judge Manierre wrote frequently to the president to whom he gave his support.

Evidently inheriting the same venture some spirit as that possessed by his grandfather, Harold Manierre joined the Franco-American Aviation Corps, in 1917, which was attached to the First Regiment of the French Foreign Legion. The unit was an outgrowth of the Lafayette Esquadrille which drew many eager young Americans at the time to its ranks. In 1918, Manierre joined the Naval Aviation Detachment from Cambridge, Mass., as chief quartermaster. Since that time he has travelled extensively about the world. He purchased a home on Ohayo Mountain in 1941, after spending several summers in Byrdcliffe and at Mead's Mountain House. Only recently he learned that an ancestor of his mother's, Lewis Edson, came to Woodstock from Bridgewater, Conn., in 1817, and died here in 1820.

Feinberg Twins Hold Local Exhibition

Woodstock, July 15—The Feinberg twins, Mildred and Minna, of New York, who have won fame as the advertising artists for Best and Company, are holding an exhibition of their paintings, both oil and water color, at the Town House. The show opened Friday afternoon with a reception.

Painting as a unique team, the twin artists frequently complete a canvas together. A lambent street scene, sketched in Nassau by Minna, was later developed into the final painting by Mildred. They also created together a large canvas with a pair of sleeping children decoratively surrounded by a gay patchwork quilt in an aura of phantasy.

Mildred's painting of Children at Play is mobile and gay in contrast to the quiet appeal in her Antique Barn. There are two charming Rockport street scenes, both painted from the same vantage point, one twin looking up the street and the other down the same road. The twins are particularly adept in the handling of water color and one alcove of the gallery is devoted to a group of them by both artists, who are students of Alex Redein, noted Woodstock painter.
